—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

The street car trust of New York city has a contract with the city limiting the fare to 5 cents.

When the contract was made passengers could have been carried profitably for 3 cents. The corporation urged that 5 cents be written in the contract. It was done.

Now Governor Miller, in a message to the New York Legislature, appears to recommend passage of legislation that would end the contract for a 5-cent fare between the city and the corporation.

After this has been fought out, the people will know whether the Constitution of the United States, forbidding breaking of contracts by legislation, has any meaning.

It is easy for a Legislature to obey a Governor and pass a law SAYING that a contract between a city and its corporation is ended.

BUT—let a citizen refuse the increased fare—demand that the contract be kept—allow himself to be ejected and arrange to have his case brought to the Supreme Court of the United States. Then the Legislature of New York may find that it is not as easy as it seems to nullify a contract between five millions of people and a corporation because the corporation tires of the contract.

This New York matter interests every city in the United States, for if, to oblige corporations, New York's Legislature can break contracts and defy the Constitution of the United States, no municipality should enter into any contract with any corporation whatever. No use signing a "scrap of paper" that the corporation can get rid of when it gets the right Governor.

Practical men, soon to be in charge of the War Department and of this country's defence, will note the end of the "Mad Mullah." For years that Mullah, getting madder and madder, has been bothering England. Soldiers were sent tramping over the sand after him. Many died, but the original Mullah, or a good imitation, went on. Then came the flying machine, and, with the big worry out of the way, England went after Mr. "Mad" Mullah with eleven machines carrying about two hundred men. The Mullah learned how rabbits feel when hawks appear. And the Mad Mullah is no longer an obstacle to British rule in Somaliland.

American authorities, please take notice. The new fighting weapons are submarines and flying machines. Ships on water and troops on land take second place.

This will interest Henry Ford. Not long ago a well informed man from Detroit came to New York and said, "In a day or two they'll get so and so," mentioning a man who shortly afterward had his great automobile properties taken from him. The gentleman continued, "A little later they'll get Ford."

They WON'T get Ford, he is too powerful for them. But it will interest Ford to know that they are trying to get him. To take a big concern and pick it clean is profitable.

When newspapers announce that Henry Ford is in the market for a loan of fifty or seventy-five million, it puzzles the little man who knows that Ford has been distributing millions in bonuses to his workers. Ford needs the money "to pay his income tax." If Ford would come to New York and talk to some intelligent people they would show him how to put away the money that his company earns, then ISSUE NEW STOCK DIVIDENDS TO HIMSELF, instead of taking money, paying nothing to the government on that issue of stock. Henry Ford, who paid forty million in income tax a year ago, is evidently an innocent gentleman.

In connection with Ford's borrowing, Wall Street tells a story, not true, but "well found." It represents Ford applying to J. Pierpont Morgan for a loan of fifty millions and Morgan referring him to Kuhn, Loeb & Company. Those that read the Ford weekly will see the point of that story. As a matter of fact, Ford does not think much of Morgan & Company, and says so. Consequently he would not go to them for money. He probably could borrow a hundred million from Ford owners. He certainly could sell, easily, several hundred millions worth of Ford stock. Why borrow, especially in Franklin Thrift Week?

War is expensive. Excepting human life, values actually destroyed in war, are the least part. The real loss comes later, when men are idle, production stops, industry is upset and the world loses its greatest asset, which is intelligent labor intelligently directed.

You are reminded of this when you read that in the Pittsburgh district alone a hundred and eighty thousand men in the steel industry are idle. The daily wage loss in Pittsburgh amounts to a million dollars a day. In Europe they talk about a tax on capital. Here you have a tax on human life, that tax being enforced idleness, the misery and discouragement that come with it.

RICH LYNN FOLK HIRE THEIR OWN POLICE

CABOT JURY PICKED IN 6 MINUTES

BURGLARS IN AUTOS RAID 12 HOUSES

25 Special Officers Guard Lynn Section Terrorized by Gang of Thieves

Panic stricken by the depredations of a band of thieves, who travel in autos, the residents of the "Diamond District" of Lynn have employed twenty-five additional special officers to guard their homes, their property and their lives.

They also sent a demand today to Chief of Police Burckes for additional police protection against the gang, which, during the last two weks, is believed to have been responsible for twelve robberies in the fashionable Lynn Shore Drive section.

Although the amounts taken in the individual cases have been comparatively small, the total foots up to over $10,000. The lot consists of silverware, jewelry and valuable furs.

The depredations of the gang which has terrorized the fashionable district of Lynn began two weks ago, and have been marked with touches which, the police say, prove that a master mind is back of all the robberies.

The first activity of the band was an attack upon Charles O. Johnson, a special officer.

Johnson saw a man standing on a ladder peering into the window of a home on the drive. Drawing his revolver, the officer forced the intruder to come down.

Arrived at the foot of the ladder, the robber drew a revolver, thrust it into Johnson's face and took away the officer's weapon. Then he fled.

The following night the home of Dr. Archibald H. Martin at No. 129 Lynn Shore Drive was ransacked during the absence of the family and valuables stolen.

The other breaks followed at the rate of almost one a night, despite the efforts of the police to balk the gang and despite the guards that were placed in the district.

The latest to be reported to the police was at the home of Thomas B. Feeney, superintendent of the Metropolitan Insurance Company at Lynn, where the thieves secured a quantity of silverware and a fur coat.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE IN MT. HOPE CEMETERY

Fire early today destroyed the unoccupied superintendent's residence in Mt. Hope Cemetery, West Roxbury, with a loss of $5,000. The house was a two and one-half story frame structure. Police are investigating the origin of the fire.

Will Show Motive in Drewes Killing

Government to attempt to prove quarrel between the students led to fatal shooting.

By International News Service.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—With the fact of Elmer C. Drewes' death and other routine evidence already before the jury which is hearing the trial of William P. Brines, accused of slaying Drewes, Prosecutor James Gay Gordon produced today evidence to show a motive for the crime.

In his address to the jury Gordon said Drewes and Brines had quarrelled and that Brines had threatened his former chum. The identity of the witnesses who will be brought forward to substantiate these statements was divulged.

Speedy conclusion of the case is looked for. Completion of the jury in so brief a time yesterday and the immediate introduction of testimony gave early indication, it was held, that the Commonwealth's case soon would be completed.

William A. Gray, counsel for young Brines, is contenting himself with allowing the prosecution to prove Brines' connection with the death of Drewes. It is believed he will move to quash the indictment whenever the Commonwealth announces its case finished.

"FRIENDLESS" FORGER GETS YEAR'S SENTENCE

Worcester, Jan. 25.—Francis A. Sutherland of Hopedale admitted in Superior Criminal Court he knew of nobody who "had a good word for him." Sutherland was convicted of forging the name of Dr. R. R. Sutherland of New York to a check which he deposited in a Milford bank, later withdrawing more than $100 against it. Judge Webster Thayer before sentencing him to a year in the House of Correction asked him if he had friends and the defendant confessed there was nobody to come into court to speak for him.

FOUR INJURED FIGHTING CHICAGO FIRE

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Four firemen were injured and property loss estimated at $100,000 resulted today from a fire which swept a four-story brick building occupied by commission firms at No. 219 South Water street. An explosion preceded the flames and an investigation is being made to determine if safeblowers caused the fire.

POPE ISSUES APPEAL FOR AUSTRIA

Rome, Jan. 25.—"Austria is like a head severed from the body, struggling with horrors of poverty and despair," said Pope Benedict XV. in an appeal issued today in behalf of Austria.

MIDWEST ROADS TO DROP 10,000 MORE MEN

Cut Partly Due to Superfluous Help Hired Under Federal Control

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Railway executives on lines centring in Chicago are today devising means whereby 10,000 employes may be trimmed from the railroads payrolls within the next thirty days.

More than 20,000 men already have been laid off, it was learned today, and the reductions in working forces are not at an end.

Western railroads have not yet adopted the plan of the Pennsylvania system, which made a 20 per cent. reduction in operating forces and a 50 per cent. cut in office forces. Railroads here are simply reducing their forces where reductions are possible without adopting any specified plan for a definite reduction.

Estimates available today show that the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road has dropped from 4,000 to 5,000 men from its rolls; the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, 5,000 to 6,000; the Chicago & Northwestern, 6,000 to 7,000; the Illinois Central, 2,500, and the Chicago & Alton, between 4,000 and 5,000.

Reasons advanced for the reduction by revenue officials are: Loss in revenue that has reduced the income of the roads to the level prevailing before rate increases were granted; falling off in business that has made the services of many employes unnecessary, and a disposition to dispense with superfluous employes attached to the payroll during the period of government control.

U. S. NOTE TO MEXICO PROTESTS OIL SEIZURE

Washington, Jan. 25.—The State Department has sent an emphatic note to Mexico protesting against encroachment upon the rights of American oil producers, it was learned today. Mexicans are alleged to have taken advantage of a denouncement system, put in effect in Mexico when claims are contested, to take American oil claims and reap profits from them. It is this practice the State Department has protested.

MANY DIE IN ITALIAN SOCIALISTS' BATTLES

Milan, Jan. 25.—Many persons were killed and wounded in widespread fighting between Socialists and non-Socialists in Modena, Ferrera, Perugia and Bologna on Monday, according to advices received here today. Both sides were armed. In Modena and Bologna many homes were burned by the non-Socialists.

DESTROYS BIG STORE IN HEART OF CITY

Mendel & Freeman and Bullard Furniture Company Heaviest Losers

By International News Service.

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 25.—Fire starting at midnight in the basement of the five-story Mendel & Freedman department store, in the heart of the business section, was controlled after a four-hour battle of the entire fire department in weather close to the zero mark and confined to the block of business buildings surrounded by Chapel, Orange, State and Crown streets.

The loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

The fire ate its way through the Mendel & Freedman Building with lightning-like rapidity, and it was prevented from spreading through a large part of the central business section.

The five-story warehouse of the R. M. Bullard Furniture Company, in the rear of the Mendel & Freedman store, was a complete wreck this forenoon, and damage resulted to a dozen large firms that have their headquarters in the immediate vicinity. These include the Chatfield Paper Company.

The cause of the fire is as yet undetermined. The ice-coated ruins were smouldering throughout the day and firemen were pumping water into the ruins of the several buildings in the damaged block.

Many firemen suffered from frost, but none was seriously injured.

ASSAILS SUSPECT IN GIRL'S DEATH

Prosecutor Calls R. G. Adams, in Providence Case, 'Cold-Blooded' Slayer

Providence, Jan. 25.—Scores of fashionably dressed women waited patiently in zero weather today for seats at the trial of Rolf G. Adams, accused of the murder of Rose V. McKenna on September 2, 1920.

The trial is in progress before Judge J. Jerome Hahn. Assistant Attorney-General Capotosto is prosecuting. George J. McLeod is counsel for the defence.

Capotosto in his opening remarks to the jury today declared that the State would prove Adams guilty of murder in the first degree, and would demand the extreme penalty.

He frequently referred to the defendant as "that cold-blooded slayer," but Adams only smiled.

Miss McKenna was shot the night of September 2 while sitting in an automobile on the Barrington Parkway with William Deignan, her fiance.

TELLS OF KILLING.

Describing the State's story of the shooting, Assistant Attorney-General Capotosto said:

"Mr. Deignan and Miss McKenna were sitting in Deignan's automobile, close to the shore. Suddenly a man appeared out of the dark at their left. He wore a mask made of a handkerchief—such a handkerchief as the Red Cross distributed among soldiers and sailors during the war.

"As Mr. Deignan saw him, the man

Man on Dublin Castle Roof Escapes Troops

By International News Service.

Dublin, Jan. 25.—What may have been an attempt to blow up Dublin Castle was frustrated today when a man was discovered upon the roof.

Soldiers surrounded the castle and opened fire, but the man escaped. Officials said they were uncertain whether the man was preparing to place a bomb or was trying to steal official telegrams.

Rev. James Irwin, a Presbyterian clergyman, who toured America the same time Eamon de Valera was there, was arrested at Killead, county Antrim, charged with having a revolver, a shot gun and seditious literature in his possession.

Twenty-seven persons were arrested when Black and Tan policemen raided a Sinn Fein dance at Droghedon early today.

One member of the attacking party was killed when an assault was made upon the police and military barracks at Bandon on Monday. Three persons in their beds were wounded by stray bullets. The crown forces sustained no casualties.

Nearly a score of persons were killed in Ireland in disorders over the week-end.

Two members of the military were killed and one officer and seven men

Boston and the rest of New England are today in the grip of the Winter's coldest spell.

Dropping thirty-one degrees in twenty-four hours, the mercury for the first time this season, in downtown Boston, officially went below the zero mark, when at 7:30 this morning the thermometer on the Federal Building registered two-tenths of a degree below zero.

The back of the cold wave will be broken tomorrow, according to Forecaster Smith. His official forecast today was:

"Fair and continued cold tonight. Wednesday unsettled, probably followed by snow, with a slowly rising temperature. Northwest to north and northeast winds."

The coming snow will be due to a storm now central over Arkansas, he said and should reach here some time tomorrow.

Accompanied by a high wind, which at times reached the velocity of thirty-six miles an hour, the cold snap, coming as it did on the heels of a mild spell, sent shivers down the backs of Bostonians. The low temperature surprised even the prognos-

CHALLENGE ONLY SIX MEN IN PANEL

Government Exercises Its Right by Rejecting Five Veniremen, Defence Only One

It took less than six minutes to select a jury to try Godfrey L. Cabot, Robert D. Weston and Hector M. Holmes, all charged with conspiracy to steal papers from the office of Attorney Daniel H. Coakley, when they came up for trial before Judge Franklin G. Fessenden in Superior Criminal Court today.

In all 18 names were taken from the venire list. The government challenged five of them, Edward B. Topham, Frank D. Craig, Willis E. Fossett, George O. Mann and Walter E. Rogers. The defence challenged one, Charles J. Codesko.

The court room was crowded when the judge entered, took his seat and the proceedings began a few moments before 10 o'clock.

The work of getting a jury was taken up as soon as clerk of the court, John Campbell, had read the indictments against the accused men.

WILSON WILL START MOVING NEXT MONDAY

Washington, Jan. 25.—President Wilson will begin to move his personal effects from the White House next week. An arrangement was made today with a local transfer and storage company to begin the moving next Monday and as the President does not get possession of his new home until February 15, the goods will be placed temporarily in the company's storage warehouse.

$2,000,000 FIRE SWEEPS CENTRE OF ATHENS, GA.

Athens, Ga., Jan. 25.—Fire that swept the business section of this city early today was under control at 9 o'clock after destroying the entire block bounded by Jackson, Clayton, Broad streets and College avenue and causing losses estimated at $2,000,000. So far as known there was no loss of life. The heaviest losses were sustained by the Denny Motor Company and Michael department store.

Somerville Has Grass Fire at 4 Below

Winsted, Ct., please copy. Somerville firemen were called out this morning to fight a grass fire—and the temperature was four below.

So far back as the oldest inhabitant of that residential city can remember no grass fire has ever occurred before in January. The heat of the sun on the dry grass is not believed responsible.

The fire was on a grass plot at the rear of No. 88 Burnham street. There was no financial damage.

JURY TO TRY CABOT, WESTON AND HOLMES DRAWN IN 6 MINUTES

SIX OF EIGHTEEN VENIREMEN ARE CHALLENGED

Cabot is charged with conspiracy with the other two and is also accused of having received stolen papers.

The clerk in reading the indictments read into the record the names of Michael J. Hayes, a former patrolman, and Oswyud D. Bourbon, both of whom have turned State's evidence, and will be used by the prosecution's case against the accused trio.

Michael J. Hayes, former policeman, who was employed in Coakley's office and who is alleged by the Commonwealth actually to have taken the papers and to have turned them over to Weston and Holmes at the direction of Cabot, was the first witness.

He took the stand immediately after Assistant John P. Feeney, who is conducting the prosecution, finished his opening statement, in which he told the jury what the State expects to be able to prove.

Feeney denied Coakley had known that Hayes was in the employ of Cabot and said that the former patrolman had been employed by the attorney out of "sympathy" for his supposed need.

JUDGE DECRIES "FUSS."

In dismissing the motion of the defendants, who sought to transfer the trial to another county on the grounds that they could not hope for a fair or impartial trial in Suffolk, Judge Richard W. Irwin informed counsel for both sides that he thought they were making too much of a fuss over the case and advised them to adjust matters, if possible. He intimated that they were magnifying the importance of the case, adding:

"I am surprised to see you three grown men so exercised over a negligible case. If it were the case of coal heavers from Atlantic avenue there would not be so much emphasis placed on it.

"After all it is a misdemeanor. The feeling is deep and intense and a great deal of anxiety and worry has been manifested. I think the matter might be adjusted. However, mine is only a uniform duty.

"I wish I could get you three men together at dinner for I believe this whole matter could be straightened out. However, the thing that engenders good fellowship has been denied us."

FEENEY EMPHASIZES ISSUE.

Assistant District Attorney John P. Feeney said:

"Your honor, I feel impelled to call your attention to the fact that one of the defendants is charged with a felony and the case is a very important one. It involves the question of whether the papers and secrets of a private law office may be pawed over and made public property. The charges here involve the theft of legal documents. This case will determine whether a client may tell his troubles and secrets to an attorney and have them remain confidential."

Judge Irwin agreed with Attorney Feeney that the special plea entered after the original motion by Attorney McClennen was irrelevant as was McClennen's desire to save exceptions.

"This case stands exactly the same as if it were a new case and had never been tried," said Judge Irwin. "There is nothing to take exceptions to therefore. Really the special plea is a mateir for Judge Dubuque, who presided at the first trial."

Attorney Feeney—"The law is clear that when a defendant requests or consents to the interruption of the trial he does not come within the double jeopardy privilege. In this case the trial was taken from the jury at the request of the defendants and I claim they have no standing in this matter."

Attorney McClennen—"We asked that the case be taken from the jury not because we had prejudiced the jury but that we feared it had been prejudiced by publication of District Attorney Pelletier's letter."

McCAUL SEARCH SHIFTS TO CAMBRIDGE

Woman Sought Who Saw Slain Man and Assailants Just Before Attack

Somerville police today made public the description of the four men who attacked James McCaul of White street Sunday night as he was on his way home and inflicted injuries that proved fatal.

The description obtained from McCaul's brother-in-law, Edward McKenna of Woburn, who was w[illegible] when he was attacked, is vague, the police admit, but they hope it will aid them in their search for the men.

The men are said to have been between 18 and 23 years old, one very short and fat, one tall and thin and the other two of medium build. The tall man, who wore a dark suit and a gray hat and coat, is said by McKenna to have been the one who struck the blow that knocked McCaul into the gutter, fracturing his skull.

Lieutenant Damery and Sergeant Walsh of the Somerville police today went to North Cambridge in an effort to find a woman who is said to have seen McCaul and McKenna with the other four and to have spoken to the tall, thin man.

There was a big roundup by the military in County Kerry when more than one thousand soldiers surrounded the parishes near Tralee. They were assisted by women police who searched the females. The soldiers made 240 arrests of men and women. All were later released except about a dozen.

Several attacks were made Saturday and Sunday upon barracks in Counties Cork and Tipperary, it is reported today, but they were beaten off in every case.

Saw 6 Plunge to Death, Then 'Forgot About It'

Chicago, Jan. 25.—When an automobile loaded with men and women dashed into the Chicago River and disappeared the tragedy failed to excite Thomas Hanlon, a watchman. He informed the authorities he had witnessed the accident Saturday night, but "forgot about it."

Divers working from fireboats dragged a big green touring car from the river today but no bodies were found. Search for the bodies will be continued.

"I heard a big car roaring down the street that ends at the river and wondered where it could be going," Hanlon explained. "When I saw from the headlights it would plunge in the river I shouted a warning but I guess they did not hear me.

"The car was going fifty miles an hour. When it went over the bank I saw a man jump and heard the women scream. There was a splash. I followed to the river bank but there was not a thing on the surface to indicate where the car had gone down. I went home and forgot about it."

Hanlon claimed there were two men in the front seat and two men and two women in the rear seat.

Royal H. Myers identified the car as one stolen from him Friday. Later another automobile was dragged from the same place in the river. Oscar Lustig identified it as one stolen from him in 1916.

Pupils' Savings and Ex-Truant Vanish

Edward J. Morandi, thirteen years old, of No. 165 Washington street, Somerville, is mising, and so is $110.32, the savings of 329 pupils of the Knapp, Baxter and Perry public schools.

The police of Somerville today sent out an alarm for the boy, who was sent to the savings bank on Broadway, East Somerville, yesterday, to deposit the money collected as savings from the children.

He failed to apear at the bank and his mother informed the police that he had come home, taken a bank book of his own, showing deposits of $7, and left without a word. He has not been seen since.

The boy was recently released from the Middlesex Training School, where he had been sent for persistent truancy.

said, 'Hold up your hands,' and covered him with a gun.

"Like any other man confronted with such an emergency, Deignan tried to start his car. Then came the bullet, and a life was sent into eternity."

After describing Deignan's wild ride for assistance, the prosecutor gave his version of Adams' movements.

"Somebody has committed a dastardly crime here," he said. "The question is who. The State will produce evidence to show beyond a reasonable doubt that Rolf Adams fired the shots that killed Rose McKenna and wounded her fiance.

"We will prove that Adams put on his mask shortly before the shooting and crossed over the Metacomet Golf Club grounds to the vicinity of Deignan's car. We will prove that he hid his straw hat in the weeds.

"Having done the shooting, he cut across the tide-land at the edge of the water. Then he recalled his straw hat. He went back for it and went home."

Assistant Attorney-General Capotosto produced the forty-five automatice pistol with which the State alleges Adams did the shooting. It was found hidden not far from the spot where the shooting was done.

"This revolver was fully loaded," said Mr. Captotoste, "Adams did that to avoid suspicion, we will attempt to show you."

Dr. Clifford H. Griffin, medical examiner, was the first witness. He described the nature of the wounds inflicted on Miss McKenna and Deignan.

In Miss McKenna's case, he said, the bullet first struck some resisting body (glass in the automobile window, the State will try to show) and went through the girl's left arm, left lung and into the right chest cavity.

The medical examiner said that Miss McKenna was sitting erect when she was shot, as the course of the bullet showed.

What Is a Veteran? City Council Asks

Is a man who was drafted on Armistice Day and reached the South Station on his way to camp only to be turned back, a veteran?

The City Council wants to know before it proceeds to give a hearing to William J. Cronin, suspended officer at Deer Island. Cronin claims the right of a veteran to a trial before the City Council.

If he is a veteran, says the Law Department, cannily refusing to pass upon the question, he is entitled to a trial before being suspended and before his position can be abolished.

New York Mercury Nears Zero Point

By International News Service.

New York, Jan. 25.—Another cold wave rolled in on New York early today, the thermometer falling to 4 above zero. The cold was intensified by a forty-two-mile gale out of the northwest. The United States weather forecaster said it might get warm enough to snow tonight.

10 Below Recorded at Manchester, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 25.—The mercury registered 10 below zero here during the night. A heavy gale made the cold sharply felt. At 9 a. m. today the mercury had climbed as high as zero.

B. & M. LAYING RAILS TO KEEP MEN EMPLOYED

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 25.—The department of maintenance of way of the Boston & Maine railroad is undertaking something never known before in the history of the road—the laying of steel during the winter. Several miles of rails have been laid on the Portland division between Dover and Newmarket, Kittery and Eliot and from Portsmouth yard to Greenland. The company claims that it not only gives work to men who would be laid off, but saves money by having it done when the least number of trains are running

INSURANCE INQUIRY INTO WORCESTER FIRES OPENS

Worcester, Jan. 25.—W. J. Cullen of New York, special investigator for the arson department of the National board of fire underwriters is in this city today, probing the fires of last Wednesday and Thursday. It is still the contention of fire officials that the blaze in the Knowles Building was the work of a firebug.

MILK MEN TALK OF NEW TARIFF AT CONVENTION

Gleason and Pattee Urge Producers at Boston Convention to Consider Fordney Bill

Three hundred delegates of the New England Milk Producers' Association met in executive session today at their annual convention in Kingsley Hall, Ford Building. Acting President Chauncey M. Gleason of Haverhill delivered the opening message. He paid a tribute to the late Frank S. Adams of Bowdoinham, Me., who died last November while occupying the office of president. He called attention to the fact that the organization now numbers 21,000 members.

He asked his hearers to give serious consideration to the Fordney tariff bill, now before Congress, which imposes duties on milk, butter, cheese and cream, with the idea of deciding whether the association will favor or oppose it.

Managing Director Richard Pattee of Newton Highlands recommended a conference of all New England dairy interests in regard to the bill, and also recommended a national program for dairy marketing. He said that the farmers should make a larger percentage of profit.

Twenty years ago, he said there was one cow for every 12 persons in this Commonwealth, while today there is one cow for every twenty-six persons.

The producers will banquet at the Ford Building tonigh. Dr. A. W. Gilbert will be toastmaster. Among the speakers will be Dr. Charles E. North of New York, Prof. W. P. B. Lockwood of Massachusetts Agricultural College, and Milo D. Campbell of Coldwater, Mich.

MRS. HARDING'S NAME ON SUFFRAGE COMMITTEE

Washington, Jan. 25.—Although adhering strictly to her decision to take no part in social affairs during her stay here, Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the President-elect, allowed her name to be placed on the committee of on hundred in charge of the presentation of a suffrage memorial statue to the Capitol.

The statue, in which are mounted on one pedestal the portrait busts of Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, will be presented February 15, immediately preceding the formal opening of the National Woman's Party convention here.

MARK H. CREHAN HIT BY AUTO IN BACK BAY

Mark H. Crehan, sixty-three years, of No. 23 Castlegate road, Grove Hall, well known business man of Boston, was struck and knocked down by an automobile owned and operated by Seabury C. Gibbs of Cataumet at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Newbury street, Back Bay.

Mr. Crehan was removed to the City Hospital in the Back Bay police ambulance, where it was found he was suffering from contusions and abrasion of the body and laceration of left upper thigh.

SPRINGFIELD POLICE PROBERS APPOINTED

Springfield, Jan. 25.—Mayor Edwin F. Leonard and Presidents Lester and Simpson of the two municipal boards, were named as a committee to decide upon the police department investigation. The committee was appointed at a special meeting of the City Council. It will decide whether the District Attorney, City Council or Grand Jury shall make the probe. Charges against the police claim vice and liquor selling is rampant and permitted.

MOONSHINERS START NEW BEDFORD FIRES

New Bedford, Jan. 25.—Fires starting from moonshine stills operated with oil stoves have been so numerous that Chief Dahill has issued a warning on "still alarms." He threatens to report the cases to the Federal authorities. Within the past few weeks, he declared, the department has been called out for six such fires, at one of which they found five barrels of mash and at another six kegs.

TUFTS FILES BILL TO INCREASE COURT SITTINGS

District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex County has filed with the State Senate a bill which would increase the number of the Superior Court sittings in that county. An emergency preamble attached to the bill sets forth that the number of cases awaiting trial in the county is so large that the immediate passage of the bill is necessary to public convenience.

MAN CONVICTED UNDER NEW ANARCHY LAW

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 25.—In the first test of the anarchy law enacted by the 1919 State Legislature, Anthony Marcinkevius of Nashua was found guilty by a Superior Court jury here of advocating the overthrow of the government by force of arms. He will be sentenced later and, meanwhile, will be admitted to heavy bail. He was found guilty of having in his possession, for distribution literature of a seditious nature.

LONE PERSON PAYS FEDERAL TAX ON INCOME OF OVER $5,000,000

77 'EARNED' MILLION IN YEAR

Official Figures for 1918 Show 178 Others Each Had Wealth Swelled by $500,000

Washington, Jan. 25.—One person in the United States had a net income of more than $5,000,000 in the calendar year of 1918.

Seventy-seven others made more than $1,000,000 and 178 had their wealth swelled by more than $500,000.

Two of the "more than a million" class gathered between four and five million; four cleared between three and four million, eleven rounded up from two to three millions, sixteen tucked away in their jeans from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, and thirty-three registered between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

AVERAGE TAX WAS $254.

Of the 178 who had net incomes between $500,000 and $1,000,000, forty-six made from $750,000 to $1,000,000 and 132 corralled between $500,000 and $750,000.

These figures were made public today in an official report of the commissioner of internal revenue. The names of the persons making the returns are not revealed. The law requires that income tax returns be held confidential.

A total of 4,425,114 persons filed returns for the year which ended December 31, 1918. The aggregate net income reported was $14,924,639,335 and the normal and surtaxes paid amounted to $1,127,721,835.

The average amount of tax paid by each person was $254.85 and the average tax rate was 7.08.

As compared with 1917, the returns for 1918 show an increase of 952,224 in the number of persons having to pay income taxes; a growth of $2,272,256,148 in total net income reported, and an increase of $436,228,881 in the amount of taxes paid.

CORPORATION RETURNS.

Corporation income tax returns for the calendar year 1918, other than personal service corporations, numbered 317,579. Of these, 202,061 reported net income amounting to $8,361,511,249; income tax $653,198,483; war profits and excess profits tax, $2,505,565,939; total tax, $3,158,764,422.

For the calendar year 1917 the total number of corporation returns was 351,426, of which 232,079 reported net income amounting to $10,730,360,211, and tax aggregating $2,142,445,769.

The number of partnerships reporting net income for the calendar year 1918 was 91,132, the total net income amounting to $939,881,678. The number of personal service corporations reporting net income was 2,997, the total net income amounting to $51,923,954.

The number of partnerships reporting no net income for the year was 5,596 and the number of personal service corporations reporting no net income was 506.

Net income of partnerships and personal service corporations is not taxable, but both are required to file a return whether or not there was a net income for the year.

The number of joint returns of husbands and wives, with or without dependent children and of husbands whose wives, though living with them, filed separate returns, was 2,559,057. The number of wives making separate returns from husbands was 39,942.

The number of single men filing returns as heads of families was 296,902; the number of single women filing returns as heads of families was 82,251; the number of returns from all other single men was 1,195,801, and from all other single women, 255,661.

Girls Star on Wellesley Ice

Humpty Dumpty and "Charlotte" combined forces last night at the Wellesley ice carnival to amuse and entertain the hundreds gathered on the lake at Tower Court Cove. Two huge bonfires on the ice and one on the shore kept toes and noses and fingers warm. Fat doughnuts, hot chocolate and weenies were sold by pretty girls skating about with baskets to swell the Athletic Association fund.

From 7:30 to 9 o'clock social skating to the music of a brass band that stole several kinks from the feet of the faculty members who tried the fatal skates kept the ice a mass of swaying figures. The kindly darkness hid the blushes of the beginners, who performed amazing cartwheels and gyroistics before settling with unexpected bounces on the ice.

Dolly West, '23, of New York City, and Caroline Chaffee of Pittsfield, skimmed through a series of fancy skating stunts and dance figures by the light of bonfires. The carnival closed with the last "figure eight" of the nimble pair.

The carnival was under the direction of Ida Webber, '23, Holyoke. Hildegarde Churchill, Amherst, was chairman of music; Isabelle Wain, Cleveland, O., was in charge of the checking system; Helen Logan of Bala, Pa., directed the sale of food, and Dolly West was chairman of skating.

GIRLS CLAD IN FURS PERFORM PICKET DUTY

Clothing Workers Are Watching Some of the Large Boston Plants

Despite the cold weather, women from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Association performed picket duty in front of some of the leading clothing manufacturers' houses in and about the city today.

A number of the girls, wrapped in furs, walked up and down Thacher street, North End, and urged prospective strike-breakers to join their organization.

It was announced that the report that a mounted officer and other policemen from the Hanover street station had used force in the handling of members of the union, women pickets and sympathizers at Thacher street had been given into the hands of Attorney Rower with instructions to bring the matter to the attention of Police Commissioner Curtis.

U. S. LED WORLD IN NEW SHIPPING DURING 1920

New York, Jan. 25.—The United States led the world in the total of gross tons of merchant vessels launched in 1920, according to figures made public by Lloyd's register of shipping.

The total launchings in shipyards of the world amounted to 5,861,000 gross tons, a decrease of almost 1,300,000 from the 1919 figures, but an increase of more than 400,000 over 1918. The total for the United States was 2,476,000 tons, while Great Britain was second with 2,053,000 tons. Japan launched 456,000 tons, 811,000 tons less than in 1919.

ATTENDANCE INCREASING AT ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

More persons are attending church services in Boston than twelve months ago, according to statistics furnished the ministers of this city.

Dean E. S. Rousmaniere reports that 800 more persons attended during the last twelve months the services in St. Paul's Cathedral than twelve months ago, the total being 273 services on Sunday and 786 services on other days of the week, making a grand total of 140,329 persons attending this number of services.

GIRL IS PAYING FOR LOST BETROTHAL RING

Judge Wait in the equity merit session of the Suffolk Superior Court granted continuance of case until March 28, to Miss Laura E. Donahoe of No. 8 Mallon road, Dorchester, who had been held in contempt of court for failure to comply with a degree ordering her to return a diamond engagement ring to Lester E. O'Connor.

Miss Donahoe explained that she lost the ring and is now making payments for the value of it.

CAMBRIDGE GIRL SUES HARVARD GRADUATE

Miss Etheldra M. Hills of Cambridge has brought a $2,000 breach of promise suit against John Franklin Cover, Jr., Harvard graduate of the class of 1917, and member of a prominent family of Lima, O. The action will be tried in Ohio.

J. A. Cover, Jr.

The wrecked romance began while Cover was a Harvard student, according to friends. He served overseas with the artillery and shortly after his return announcement of his engagement to Miss Hills was made through the newspapers.

Cover entered Harvard from Adelbert College. He was manager of the swimming team, a member of the swimming pool committee of 1916, served on the preparedness committee the same year, and belonged to the Speakers' Club, the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity and the Kappa Gamma Chi Club.

MRS. FREDERICK S. MEAD HONORED BY FRANCE

Mrs. Frederick S. Mead of Brookline, the first chairman of the surgical dressings committee of the National Civic Federation, was the recipient of honors from the French government at the home of Mrs. Henry P. Kidder, No. 163 Commonwealth avenue, chairman of that committee.

The French counsul, J. C. J. Flamand,, presented Mrs. Mead with a beautiful engraved diploma setting forth her service to France and signed by President Millerand. In a few days Mrs. Mead will receive a medal of honor from the same source.

WOMEN JURY MAY WEAR HATS AND POWDER FACES

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 25.—Women jurors serving in the Polk County District Court may powder their faces and wear hats in the jury box if they wish, declared Judge Wallingford, addressing a panel of forty women jurors. Twenty of the forty expressed their willingness to serve after listening to the judge.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN COLLAPSES IN STREET

Police of the Roxbury Crossing station are endeavoring to identify a man who was picked up unconscious in Kendall street, Roxbury. The man, who is about thirty-five years old, is at the City Hospital. A card in one of his pockets bore the name "M. Carney."

LUDLOW GIRL'S DEATH NATURAL, DOCTOR SAYS

Vanished and Was Not Heard From Until Her Body Arrived

Cora Patterson Magee, thirty years old, the Ludlow girl whose parents are reported to have engaged detectives to investigate her death, died from anaemia, according to Boston City Hospital doctors who performed an autopsy after her death January 20.

The autopsy was performed under the direction of Dr. Mallory at the City Hospital Mortuary, and failed to reveal anything of a suspicious nature.

She was admitted to the hospital January 13, suffering from leukaemia. She was admitted under the name of Cora Magee, wife of Clarence Edward Magee of No. 46 Concord square, South End.

Dispatches from Springfield state that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson of Howard street, Ludlow, claim she was kidnaped. They say she vanished sixteen months ago, in September, 1919, and they heard nothing of her until a Springfield undertaker informed them that the body had arrived at his establishment.

They claimed that Magee, who previous to September, 1919, lived at No. 102 Cedar street, Springfield, disappeared about the same time as their daughter.

W. H. Graham, the Boston undertaker who shipped the body to Springfield, said today that Magee, who seemed deeply affected, made all the arrangements for shipping the body to Springfield. Magee went to Springfield on the noon train last Friday, immediately after the body was shipped, Mr. Graham said.

Today Graham received a postcard from Magee, postmarked Worcester, instructing that the clothing and personal effects be sent to the girl's mother at Ludlow.

The body was today removed from the Howard street, Springfield, undertaking rooms to the Ludlow Center Cemetery, where it was placed in a vault.

Mrs. Magee, wife of Clarence Edward Magee, was located with her daughter at South Deerfield today. When asked about the case she replied: "I know nothing about it and have nothing to say."

DARTMOUTH ALUMNI DINNER THURSDAY

Special features are promised by the committee in charge of the Dartmouth Alumni dinner at Symphony Hall Thursday night. Among them will be movies depicting college activities, musical novelties and speeches by Governor Cox, 1901; Dean Laycock, 1896, and Owen A. Hoban, 1899, of Gardner. A beefsteak dinner with New England cider will be served.

CELEBRATE SUCCESS OF HOLY CROSS DRIVE

Celebrating the succesful drive for $1,000,000 the Holy Cros Club of Boston held a meeting and dinner at Young's Hotel. The "jollification" was marked by a farcical tilt between Judge Thomas H. Dowd and Dr. Thomas W. Wickham and Attorney James T. Connolly. Among the guests were Rev. James J. Carlin, president of Holy Cross, and Cleo A. O'Donnell, graduate manager of athletics.

Six Armed Guards Keep Skaters Off Pond

Following threats to shoot all who invade that part of "Big Meadows" Pond at Abington, recently purchased by Edward Holmes, of Parker Holmes & Co., shoe jobbers of Boston, six armed guards today caused a stir among young and old from Abington and neighboring towns, who came for ice skating and fishing.

The guards are employed by Mr. Holmes, it is stated, and have terrorized the younger folks of the town by their presence.

Chester West of Brockton owns a small section of the pond and has given permission to visitors to make use of it either for skating or fishing. But the presence of the guards on the Holmes portion of the pond confines the skating to a small area.

BOY KILLED WHILE EXAMINING PISTOL

Henry A. Dudley.

Paine was arrested on a charge of manslaughter, but the police believe that the pistol was fired accidentally while the two youths were examining it in the offices of the school. Dudley, it is said, had just passed the weapon to Paine when it was discharged, the bullet penetrating the younger lad's heart. An investigation is being conducted today.

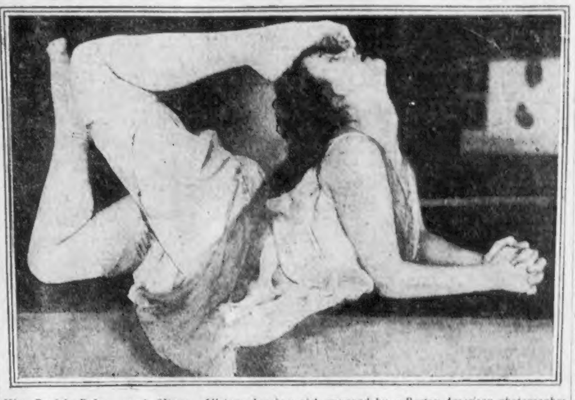
Girls, Do You Want to Be Graceful? Try This



Miss Beulah Baker, aged fifteen, Allston dancing girl, snapped by a Boston American photographer as she was performing the difficult stunt of touching her nose with her big toe.

Have you tried the new indoor Winter sport, girls?

It consists of touching the tip of your nose with your big toe after putting your foot over the back of your head. It's all very simple, if you know how, according to fifteen-year-old Beulah Baker of No. 1556 Commonwealth avenue, who has startled her friends by her acrobatic feats and dancing. She is a pupil of the Amelia Burnham Studio of Dancing, No. 240 Huntington avenue. She accomplished this difficult "stunt" after a month of practice.

"Miss Baker is the only amateur dancer I know of who can do this difficult stunt," said Miss Burnham to a Boston American reporter. "When she first tried it she could not place her toe against the back of her head and keep it there. She practised hard and made rapid progress. Little by little she extended her foot until now it is very easy for her to touch the end of her nose and I believe that before long she will be able to touch her chin.

"The ability of Miss Baker to accomplish this hard feat proves conclusively the value of dancing for children. When she first began dancing four years ago she could not kick any higher than her knees. What dancing has done for her is a powerful argument in its favor. Dancing makes the body supple and adds grace to every movement."

"Before Summer I hope to be able to touch my chin," said Miss Baker. "At the present time I can extend my toe about twenty inches farther over the back of my head than when I first tried. If more girls practiced feats like this I feel that they would be more healthful. The exercise I get from dancing and doing stunts of this character keeps my body so supple that I feel at times as if I could fly. Girls need more exercise and fresh air, especially when they live in the city."

SIX MOTHERLESS CHILDREN LOSE THEIR HOME

Escape Death in West Boylston Fire, but Are Without Clothing

West Boylston, Jan. 25.—Six motherless children and their father, Felix Barbieri, of West Boylston, were burned out of their home. They lost their clothing and all they owned and barely escaped with their lives.

Without a shelter, a stick of furniture or necessary clothing, the five boys and girl were forced to go to the homes of Dennis Kimball and Galiano Bianchini, neighbors, while firemen tried to save the house.

Fire Warden Harry E. Lowe has issued an appeal to townspeople for anything in the line of household furnishings, clothing or money to help the family.

Passersby noticed flames coming from the house, aroused the family and notified the fire department. Barbieri was dazed by the smoke, but clutching his two smallest children in his arms he started for the street.

A board gave way and the three, terror-stricken, fell in a heap to the floor. The father managed to recover himself and take the children to safety. The others got out in their night clothes.

The house was owned by Patsy Toio and was assessed at $1,000. Barbieri is a farmer and does odd jobs as a farm laborer. The fire is believed to have started from a defective chimney.

GOELET'S BRIDE WEARS $200,000 FUR CAPE

Snubs Americans at Marriage to French Girl in Bordeaux City Hall

Paris, Jan. 25.—Wearing a million franc (normally $200,000) fur cape, a present from her husband, Mlle. Marie Guestier was married at the City Hall in Bordeaux to Robert Walton Goelet.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a brilliant throng of French and American social lights. The religious ceremony was scheduled for today.

The signing witnesses were Alfred Schuyler and Octave Manset for the bride, with Francis Riggs and Whitney Warren, Jr., for the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the Schuyler Chateau, those present including Yolande Johnson, Anny Mestrezat, bridesmaids; Daniel M. Guestier, William Guestier and Arthur Johnson, bridegroom's assistants; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barclay, Vicomtesse de Paitrans and Count Barry de Longchamps.

The bride's presents included a $600,000 pearl necklace and numerous jewels valued at more than a million dollars.

FRIENDS OF INDIA HOLD CONFERENCE SUNDAY

Friends of Freedom for India will hold their first Massachusetts conference next Sunday at the Hotel Brunswick at 2 p. m., followed by a mass meeting in the evening. Both meetings will take place in the large Egyptian room. At the afternoon meeting Mayor Edward F. Quinn of Cambridge will speak and Mrs. Josephine H. Bennett will preside. Other speakers will be Tarak Nath Das and Sailendra Nath Ghose on conditions in India. In the evening the speakers will include Tarak Nath Das, Thomas H. Mahoney, assistant district attorney of Suffolk County; State Representative P. J. Melody of Boston and Mrs. Bennett.

HARVARD CO-OPERATIVE SALES OVER $500,000

Judging from the sales of the Harvard Co-operative Society in the first six months, the organization will do a million dollar business in its fiscal year, according to the semi-annual report just turned over to the directors by Professor W. B. Munro, president of the society. The business from July 1 last to New Year's Day amounted to $400,144.77 at the main store, an increase of $39,650.44 over the total sales of the corresponding period in 1919, and $115,567.78 was taken in at the branch store maintained at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

FISKDALE MAN, NOW 72, BEGAN SMOKING AT 7

Fiskdale, Jan. 25.—John Leonard Chaffee, who declares his life was saved sixty-five years ago by a tea brewed out of chewing tobacco, celebrated his seventy-second birthday by splitting and storing two cords of wood. That, he says, is his daily task. He ascribes his vigorous old age to total abstinence from liquor, but says he has smoked ever since he was seven years old. He sold his farm six years ago in order to retire, but, not content to be idle, went to work for the town of Sturbridge on the roads, and has since built many abutments for bridges, cellars and stone foundations.

200 AT MEETING ACT ON O'CALLAGHAN CASE

More than 200 members of the Hugh Roe O'Donnell Council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic met in John Cheverus School, East Boston, and listened to addresses by Professor Daniel Foley of Winthrop, William B. Larkin of Roxbury, Robert E. Bigney of South Boston and William C. S. Healy. Thomas J. Niland presided. Resolutions were passed protesting against the deportation of Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork and against action favoring England in war loan matters.

LOVE NOTES TO GIRL SUICIDE GO TO JURY

Broker's Son Tells of Hazel Rice's Death Threat When He Refused to See Her

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Investigation of the death of Miss Hazel Rice was halted suddenly to permit the coroner's jury to review letters the girl received a short time before her death. She died Sunday from poison, said to have been self-administered. The hearing will be resumed February 3.

The break came in the hearing after the girl's brother, Owen J. Rice, said he believed that love letters written to the girl by Louis J. Jacques, son of a wealthy sugar broker, should be read by Jacques to the jury.

Jacques denied that he was in love with the girl and said he knew of no motive for the suicide. He admitted, however, that she had telephoned him Sunday to come to her apartment and he told her he had another engagement.

"Then you will never see me alive again," he quoted her as telling him over the wire.

He testified that later he decided to drive home and met her on the way. He stopped the car and she rushed up to him saying she had taken acid and it was burning her up.

He placed her in the seat beside him and drove to a hospital. When they reached the hospital she was dead.

Her death note merely stated she was tired of living and willed her "pretty clothes" to a friend. The girl's mother testified today that she knew of no reason for her daughter's act.

The love letters from Jacques had been torn up but were pieced together by her brother who found them.

Summer School to Open July 5

The Harvard Summer School will open for a six weeks' session July 5. The announcement is made by J. T. Murray, recently appointed director of the school. More than one hundred courses will be given. All three of the freshman dormitories are to be reserved for students of the school.

COMMISSION TO AID AUSTRIA CHOSEN

Supreme Council of League Takes Up Greek and Other Balkan Problems

Paris, Jan. 25.—The first definite step towards Austrian relief was taken by the Supreme Council today when a commission was appointed to study the problem and make recommendations to the allies.

This action was taken at the morning session; in the afternoon the statesmen turned their attention to Greek and other Balkan matters.

It was suggested that France and England advance 50,000,000 pounds sterling for Austrian relief and also attempt to stabilize the Central European exchange rates.

The premiers, it is understood, have concluded that the rehabilitation of Austria is bound up with the whole economic situation of Central Europe.

French, British and Italian experts read long reports upon the distress and needs of Austria. Afterward the relief commission was appointed, with Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy represented. The French delegate is M. Loucheur, who was a member of the French peace delegation; the British member is Sir Robert Horne.

The commission held its first meeting during the afternoon, but it is doubtful if it will be able to report before the conference breaks up at the end of the week.

Germany Demands Burden Be Reduced, Says Simons

Berlin, Jan. 25.—Germany is ready to waive the clause of the Versailles treaty providing that the total German indemnity must be fixed by May 1 only if the allies "will lighten the German burden," Foreign Minister Simons announced in a speech to the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag today.

The Foreign Minister's declaration was in answer to the allied proposal that only the amount of reparation that Germany must pay annually for the next five years be fixed at this time, the aggregate sum being announced at a later date.

Foreign Minister Simons said that the German government looked for "unfair dictation of conditions that could not be fulfilled" if an agreement could not be reached by May 1 on Germany's capabilities and methods of payments. Clause VIII. of the treaty says:

"The total obligations of Germany to pay, as defined in the category of damages, is to be determined and notified to her after a fair hearing and not later than May, 1921, by an inter-allied reparation commission."

Balkans Point Way for League, Says Lord Cecil

London, Jan. 25.—The small nations of the world are pointing the way in the League of Nations and of the small nations those of the Balkans, previously the most troublesome, have set the finest examples of international co-operation in the opinion of Lord Robert Cecil, the leading zealot of the movement in the English-speaking world.

Lord Robert admitted today that the league has not yet reached the state of completeness and recognition that will enable it to tackle the gigantic problems of world disarmament.

"The outstanding fact is the enthusiasm of the smaller nations for the league," said Lord Robert. "They are all in earnest about it. They send their very best men to represent them at the assembly, and they bow most cheerfully to the decisions of the league.

"Day by day at Geneva we were conscious that what we did was watched and discussed with the keenest interest in Norway, Sweden, Servia, Greece, the South American republics and, in fact, all the small countries. To them the league is a reality."

PROF. POLLARD'S REMOVAL IS DEMANDED

Bangor A. O. H. and K. C. Ask Exclusion From Schools for Alleged Insult to Ireland

Bangor, Jan. 25.—A joint committee of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Knights of Columbus of Bangor, Me., on Monday submitted resolutions to the trustees of the University of Maine condemning the action of Professor L. J. Pollard in making statements recently before teachers in Bangor which have since been vigorously protested as insulting to the Irish race, and called upon the city and State school superintendents to take action to prevent further participation of the professor as a lecturer in schools of Bangor.

Committees were appointed to investigate the alleged remarks of the professor, and the statement and resolutions submitted Monday are the result of several meetings and a thorough investigation.

RESIGN FROM CLASSES.

The committee from the Ancient Order of Hibernians was composed of the State president of that organization, Hugh T. Gallagher, the division president, John H. Magee, and John M. O'Connell, Jr. The Knights of Columbus committee consisted of State Deputy of that society, John F. Dally, the grand knight of the Bangor Council, and Frank Karem.

Many protests have already been made against the utterances of Professor Pollard and the agitation for action is becoming more noticeable all over the State. Teachers have resigned from his classes and it is generally understood that many more will not register for the courses the coming semester.

STATEMENT AND RESOLUTIONS.

The statement and resolutions sent to the university trustees and school authorities Monday is as follows:

Members of Division 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians and of Pine Cone Council, Knights of Columbus, both of Bangor, assembled at meetings Sunday, Jan. 16, 1921, delegated committees the power to investigate and act upon, in behalf of these societies, statements purported to have been made by Prof. L. J. Pollard of the University of Maine, which as reported in the public press, were insulting to persons of Irish birth or descent.

These committees met January 17, organized as a joint committee, and, appreciating the importance of the subject under discussion, held several meetings at which a thorough investigation was made for the purpose of arriving at a careful and deliberate decision.

This committee, after individual investigation by the members and inquiry by the committee as a whole, finds that a brief statement of the controversy is as follows:

Prof. L. J. Pollard, of the University of Maine, conducts classes in psychology for the teachers of the kindergarten and grade schools of the city of Bangor. The teachers pay a fee for this instruction, are credited with points in the University extension school and are put in line for increases in salaries according to a scheduled plan outlined by the school government. At one of these classes in psychology, the kindergarten class, Prof. Pollard made remarks which were considered by teachers present as insulting to the Irish race and entirely inappropriate to the subject being discussed. As a result a letter of protest was written to Dr. Robert J. Aley, president of the University of Maine. This letter was signed by several teachers registered in both of the psychology classes.

APOLOGY NOT FORTHCOMING.

The letter of protest was apparently turned over to Prof. Pollard and he in turn sent one of his substitutes to Bangor to read a reply to the teachers. Later Prof. Pollard appeared in person before the teachers and claimed that his statements had been misinterpreted but this time accepted the blame for not making himself clear to his class. At this meeting he requested the teachers to send a letter to the president of the University informing him that the incident was closed.

As a result of this incident several teachers have already left the classes and are therefore making a personal sacrifice in not being able to gain the points awarded for completion of the course for which they have already paid the enrollment fee. Teachers other than those who sent the letter of protest and not of Irish descent were embarrassed at the statements of the instructor. At least one of these teachers wrote a letter voluntarily protesting the incident but upon finding that other teachers had protested did not send the letter but willingly submitted it to the teachers who had already expressed indignation at the statements.

The statements of Prof. Pollard, regardless of how he may claim they have been interpreted, have been circulated widely throughout New England and have been the occasion of many protests. The only explanation the people who have read these statements have had is Prof. Pollard's defense that he was misinterpreted. Regardless of what he may claim to have said to Dr. Aley, he has not apologized publicly for them, and inasmuch as his statement to the teachers insisted that he was misinterpreted by them, this can hardly be taken as an apology.

NO QUARREL WITH UNIVERSITY.

We have no quarrel with the University of Maine. We realize and appreciate that this great institution is doing splendid work in many directions; and we cheerfully contribute our share in taxes towards its maintenance; neither is it our province to offer any defence of the people of America of Irish extraction; ever since the days of Charles Carroll of Carrolltown down through all the years and during the present time they have contributed a full and glorious share in the upbuilding of this great nation of which we are so proud. In every line of endeavor whether civil, legislative, judicial or martial the brain and brawn of the American of Irish extraction have been freely contributed. From one extreme of the United States to the other the hilltops are dotted with churches, schools, hospitals and orphanages each standing as a monument to the splendid zeal and sacrifice of the men and women of this race. We know that their great contribution to the upbuilding of America is appreciated by fair minded Americans. We do not hate the English people but we do hate and despise England's "misgovernment" in Ireland. We glory in the attitude of the Irish people in their struggle for the same liberty and independence for which we fought in 1776.

Therefore this committee has decided that:

Whereas: Prof. J. L. Pollard of the University of Maine has made certain statements insulting to, and slanderous of, the people of Irish birth or descent and an investigation has shown these statements to be substantially as reported in the public press, that it be resolved as follows:

ALL NEW ENGLAND AROUSED.

We deplore the language used by Professor Pollard before the teachers, for whatever purpose, and protest the insult to the people of Irish birth or descent.

We readily take cognizance of the demand from all over New England that rigid action be taken in this matter and join the persons protesting, many of whom are alumni of the University of Maine, in demanding that, in these times when the danger of spreading propaganda is continually before us, every attempt at things un-American be met squarely and dealt with severely.

We realize that this incident has become more than a matter of local interest and regardless of what settlement is or will be made with the teachers, persons throughout the country who have been offended, are awaiting reparation.

We regret that a person making such remarks should be instructing students who will soon become teachers of the future citizens of our city, State and nation, and further regret our teachers in Bangor should be asked to attend classes under his supervision.

We are aware of the fact that Professor Pollard has not made a frank public apology, but has by a quibbling attitude, personally with the teachers and through the press, attempted to vindicate himself. He has accused the teachers of misinterpreting his statements, the press of misrepresenting his remarks, and has appeared before the teachers to modify some of his utterances by the use of qualifying clauses or words of which in one instance the word "typical" figured very prominently.

ASK BAN ON POLLARD.

Therefore, be it further resolved:

That, we respectfully request the trustees of the University of Maine to investigate and give consideration to this unfortunate incident with a view to preventing its repetition and taking appropriate action.

That, we respectfully request the superintendent of schools of the city of Bangor to take action to prevent further participation of Professor Pollard in any course of instruction for the students or teachers in the schools of Bangor.

That, we respectfully request that the State superintendent of schools for the State of Maine investigate this case with a view to taking the necessary action to eliminate as a lecturer in our schools an instructor guilty of remarks, no matter how they may be interpreted nor for what purpose expressed, such as those made by Professor Pollard.

That a copy of this statement and these resolutions be sent to the members of the board of trustees for the University of Maine, the president of the University, the State superintendent of schools, and superintendent of schools for the city of Bangor.

The foregoing statement and resolution is signed by Hugh T. Gallagher, State President, A. O. H. in Maine; John F. Dally, State Deputy, K. of C. in Maine; John H. Magee, President, Bangor Division, A. O. H.; Matthew F. Dunn, Grand Knight, Bangor K. of C.; Frank Karem and John M. O'Connell, Secretary of the Committee.

WOMEN MAKE AUBURN G. O. P. RECOGNIZE THEM

Auburn, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Eleanor W. Barrows was nominated for the School Committee here and Miss Luella A. Eaton for the board of library trustees in the first Republican caucus this town has had with women taking part. Out of more than 300 persons present, at least 100 were women and they insisted upon two of their sex being given places on the ticket.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

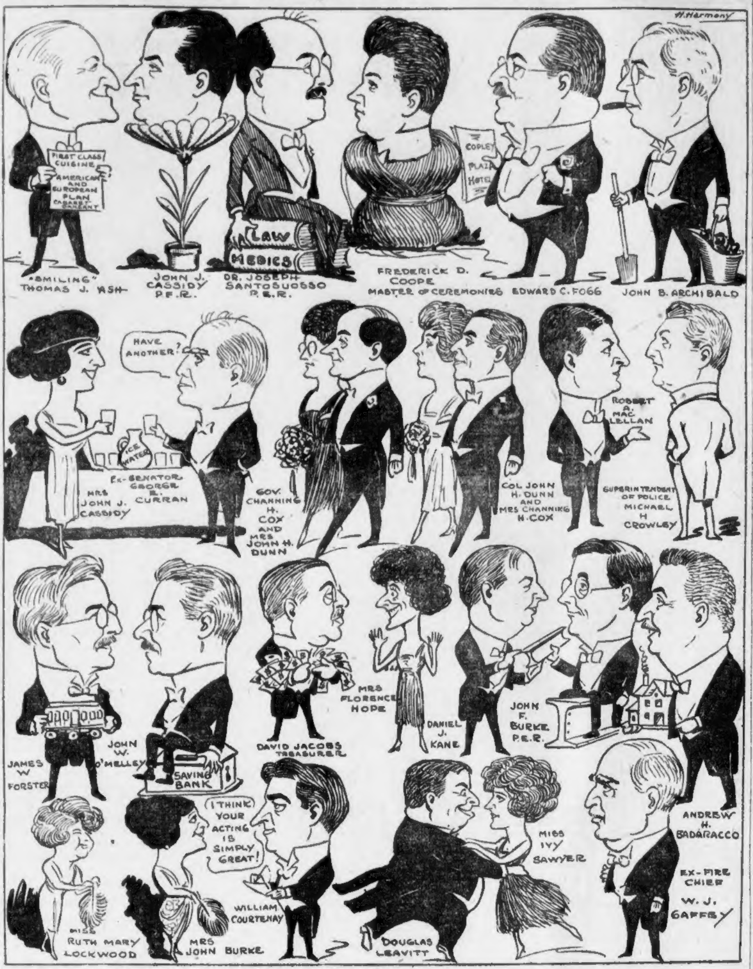
Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

Charity Ball Held by Boston Elks Is Big Success



The annual charity ball held by the Boston lodge of Elks in the Copley-Plaza ball room was one of the most successful of the social affairs ever held by this popular organization.

Several hundred couples participated in the grand march and prominent federal, State and city officials were present as guests of honor. Officers of various lodges in the State occupied boxes about the hall.

The 11 o'clock toast was given by Lieutenant Michael F. Culliney of the Boston Lodge. The tableau was designated and arranged by Edward F. Chapman of Keith's Theatre. The committee in charge was headed by Dr. Francis X. Mahoney.

$50,000 LOSS IN HARVARD AVE. FIRE

Four Stores Burned Out in Allston Business Block; Diners Flee Cafe

Fire starting in the basement of the John T. Connor Company, No. 132 Harvard avenue, Allston, spread to three other stores in the one-story business block, caused a smoke and water loss in two other, and resulted in a loss of more than $50,000. Diners in the Commonwealth Cafe were forced to flee and three alarms were sounded.

A total loss of property was reported in the Connor store, Hayda's confectionery store, No. 128 Harvard avenue; Women's Exchange, No. 13? Harvard avenue, and Commonwealth Cafe. The Downing gown shop at No. 124 Harvard avenue was damaged by smoke and the basement filled with water.

From the basement of the Connor store the fire burned through partitions to the Hayda store on the northerly side of the block where it was check. Across a narrow areaway, however, some smoke damage was caused in Farquharson's candy store.

On the southerly side the fire worked through the basements of the burned stores to the end of the block. Floors of the four burned stores collapsed.

Menace of a further spread of the fire to adjoining blocks because of the high wind resulted in the third alarm.

CAPE COD CANAL SUITS FOR DAMAGES VACATED

Counter suits brought by the Boston, Cape Cod & New York Canal Company and the Seaboard Transportation Company were ordered dismissed in a finding of the United States Court of Appeals. The order vacates a finding of the lower court which had awarded damages of $321,740.87 and costs to the Seaboard Transportation Company in the loss of the steamship Chisholm in the canal in 1916. The owner company charged that the ship was sunk through negligence of the canal management.

STOKES CHARGES WALLACE STOLE WIFE'S LOVE

Names Western Mining Man Corespondent; Wallace Emphatically Denies Charge

San Francisco, Jan. 25.—Edgar T. Wallace, mining man and oil magnate of San Francisco, was named corespondent by W. E. D. Stokes in the famous divorce case which is being tried in the Superior Court of New York.

Stokes charges Wallace with misconduct with Mrs. Stokes at various times between 1911 and 1918 in New York and Chicago. Wallace is further charged with accompanying Mrs. Stokes from New York to Chicago in 1917.

All of these charges were emphatically denied by Wallace. After admitting he had filed an affidavit denying the charges to be submitted at the trial, he stated his interest in the case ceased there.

"It is all so absurd," Wallace declared. "There is absolutely no foundation for such accusations. I knew Mrs. Stokes. I met her years ago at the home of her mother, Mrs. Elwell, in Denver. I have not seen her since a year before her marriage to Stokes.

"I don't know Stokes. He doesn't know me. The address given by Stokes is that of my apartment in New York. Mrs. Stokes was never there in her life. Furthermore, I was never in a buggy, train or automobile with her. Our acquaintance was of the most conventional type, and her mother was present at all times."

Absolute confidence in the integrity of her husband was expressed by Mrs. Wallace. They were married quietly in San Jose in April, 1919.

2 AUTOISTS CAUGHT WITH 35 GALLONS OF ALCOHOL

Joseph B. Thetonia of No. 16 Agawan street, and William Riley of No. 68 Cohannon street, Taunton, were arrested in an automobile at the corner of First and D streets, South Boston, charged with transporting thirty-five gallons of alcohol. The arrests were made by Federal officers, assisted by patrolmen from Station 6.

Let Your Beard Grow to Get Brain Action

Easton, Pa., Jan. 25.—Let your beard grow and your brain will function in the ratio of the hirsute sprout. Is this half of the answer for a much maligned "toothpick" mustache?

Anyway, following what was declared to be at old college custom, the members of the Lafayette College freshmen class today began a shaveless week. It is the custom, it was declared, to taboo a razor during the week of mid-year examinations. This siege of terror began today and to shave, it was decreed, would bring wretched luck.

However, should a freshman fail in his exams it is permissible for him to shave immediately.

URSULA DALE GRADUATED FROM BUSINESS TO STAGE

Ursula Dale

Ursula Dale, one of the stars in the William Rock Revue, graduated to the stage via the business world. Before appearing before the footlights she was employed in a responsible position at the Newark plant of the General Electric Company. Friends, realizing that her talent and her singing voice should be given free rein, advised her to seek fame on the stage. She is now on the way to much greater success.

CITY PLANNING BOARD UNDER ATTACK

Councillor Donoghue Condemns Probe of Collusion of Builders and Dealers

A scathing attack upon the city planning board by City Councillor John A. Donoghue for its recommendation to investigate whether there is collusion between contractors and dealers in materials here as in New York, marked the city council meeting.

"The city planning board doesn't amount to anything as far as city planning or anything else is concerned," declared Donoghue heatedly.

"The planning board went outside the scope of the order referred to it in suggesting an investigation of possible collusion between builders and dealers in materials.

"Before sending their report to the city council they referred it to a subcommittee of the Chamber of Commerce. If the city planning board is to be an adjunct of the Chamber of Commerce, then the city of Boston ought not to pay the freight."

President Moriarty said he intended to pay his respects to the report at a later date.

GEDDES GUARDED BY CORDON OF POLICE

Leaves Liverpool for Paris Under Greatest Protection Ever Given an Envoy

London, Jan. 25.—The most extraordinary precautions ever taken to guard a British ambassador were witnessed at Liverpool when Sir Auckland-Geddes stepped from the liner Kaiserin. Arriving on British soil, he began a hurried trip to Paris where he was summoned by Premier Lloyd George who is attending the conference of the Supreme Council.

A squad of detectives and special constables surrounded the envoy when he left the boat and sped across the city where, in a few minutes, he was safely ushered into a special saloon car.

The ambassador's special coach was also guarded by secret service men and policemen and no one was allowed to approach. I succeeded, however, in gaining entrance to the ambassador's car through the cordons of guards and chatted with him for more than an hour en route to London.

ADMITS PREMIER'S SUMMONS.

While he was perfectly willing to discuss the social side of Washington life, Sir Auckland refused to enter any conversation regarding any of the all important Anglo-American questions. He admitted that he came to Europe at this time as a result of a summons from Downing street two days prior to his sailing.

Geddes laughed when he was told that many columns had been printed concerning the "secret preparations" taken for his departure from America.

"Not many people knew I was going," he said, "for the simple reason that my name was not on the passenger list. That is explained by the fact that the lists had already been printed when I booked my passage."

The Ambassador declared that he was extremely pleased with his sojourn in Washington, saying:

"I had a wonderful reception from everyone everywhere. It could not have been better. I was especially delighted with the receptions accorded me in my travels throughout the country. Lady Geddes was also delighted with Washington."

SAW HARDING 3 TIMES.

He denied rumors that have been current in London that his family had been bothered by Sinn Feiners. He admitted, however, that the State Department has assigned detectives to protect the embassy and his family.

Questioned regarding his opinion as to the incoming administration's attitude toward the League of Nations and participation in world affairs, he declined to make any comment.

He said that he had seen President-elect Harding three times in Washington and had talked matters over with him.

While not admitting the truth of the reports that he is going to Paris to confer with Lloyd George regarding disarmament, finance, Panama tolls, the American attitude toward Ireland and other predominant questions that might be disturbing to Anglo-American harmony, he did not deny that this was the purpose of his visit.

The inference is gathered strongly that he will lay the most complete reports before the premier and Lord Curzon on all these points.

The fact that he has been conversing with Harding is regarded here as all important and it is thought that, because of that fact, as much as any other, he has been summoned at this time.

OPTIMISTIC OVER FUTURE.

Geddes refused to talk, however, on politics, or give his opinion of the incoming administration, further than to say that he thought Harding would make an excellent President.

Throughout the informal talk the ambassador seemed highly optimistic regarding an amicable settlement for all questions between the two capitals with the advent of the Harding administration.

WESTFIELD PASTOR QUITS IN CHURCH ROW

Westfield, Jan. 25.—A meeting of the parishioners of St. Joseph's Independent Polish Church has been called for Thursday evening when action will be taken on the resignation of the Rev. Francis Kloz. It is understood that dissension has arisen in the ranks of the church leaders which has resulted in the present decision of the Rev. Mr. Kloz, who came here a few months ago to take charge of the independent church. The independent faction broke away from the Holy Trinity Church several months ago, claiming that their desire for a priest of their own tongue had not been granted.

Sues Ex-Husband for Breach of Promise

Mrs. Jessie M. Porter.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—An unusual breach of promise suit is now before the Chicago Supreme Court. Mrs. Jessie M. Porter is the complainant and her former husband, William J. Porter, the defendant.

Mrs. Porter charges that when Porter had their marriage annulled he promised to re-marry her. This he failed to do and Mrs. Porter asked $50,000 heart balm. The jury awarded her $12,000.

TABBUTT DEATH JURORS PICKED AT NEWPORT

Court to Continue Trial at Block Island, Scene of Fatal Shooting

Newport, R. I., Jan. 25.—The task of getting the twelfth juror to try Allen W. Littlefield, charged with the murder of Leon A. Tabbutt at Block Island last October, was taken up when the case was resumed in Superior Court here today.

Littlefield is alleged to have shot Tabbutt through one leg, inflicting an injury which later caused Tabbutt's death.

Assistant Attorney-General Lisson is conducting the case for the prosecution and Attorney W. R. Champlin is counsel for the defence. It is indicated the defence is planning to rely largely upon the plea of self-defence in its fight to save Littlefield.

As soon as the last juror is sworn in the court, prisoner, counsel and jurors will leave here for Block Island, where the trial will proceed. No testimony will be taken today.

WOMEN VOTERS THREATEN CITY COUNCILLORS

Announce They Intend to Break Up Secret Sessions in Transacting Business

Lady Nicotine may not be the only woman attending executive sessions of the City Council if the Ward 8, East Boston and Boston leagues of women voters have their way.

The women announce that they are out to break up these secret sessions and to demand that all municipal business be transacted in public sessions.

At present the councillors, after opening the meeting in the council chamber, adjourn to an ante-room to transact city affairs while enjoying a session with the soothing weed and practicing marksmanship on the cuspidors.

All this has got to go say the women of the three voters, leagues. Aroused by the threatened feminine invasion of the sanctum sanctorum within which no woman puts her foot, the councillors asked the women to come and show what they know about city business anyway.

If the women take up the council's offer next Monday's meeting is apt to be a lively one. Secretary Florence H. Luscomb for the Boston League of Women Voters, Lillian M. Landy of Ward 8 League and President Eve H. Breff and Secretary Gertrude E. Reed of the East Boston league, urged the public sessions.

CARPENTERS ANGERED AT CUT IN ATTLEBORO

Attleboro, Jan. 25.—Dissatisfaction was expressed here today by the master carpenters, following the announcement of the building contractors that they will reduce wages 25 cents per hour, the cut becoming effective February 1. The master carpenters have been paid at the rate of $1 per hour. A meeting of the carpenters has been called to determine what action will be taken.

Penurious Duke Tries in Vain to Borrow $25

London, Jan. 25.—How the Duke of Manchester, England's most penurious peer, vainly endeavored to borrow $25 from wealthy American friends was described in court here when the Duke's old friend, "Vere Ker Seymer," successfully brought suit to recover a loan of $1,250.

Seymer said he called at the Duke of Manchester's house in March last to take the duke's daughter, Lady Mary, to the Mantagu Races. Manchester said he was hard up and obtained a loan of $1,250.

Seymer said he later became short of money and tried to get a repayment of the loan, but failed.

GAVE BALL WITHOUT FUNDS.

In October, hearing that Manchester was giving a ball in his Berkeley Square mansion, Seymer called, thinking that would be a good time to collect his money.

"I am sorry," said the duke, "but I haven't a cent. I cannot pay."

"But you are able to give this ball and there must be a lot of champagne in the house," Seymer retorted.

"Oh, well, you can pay for that in other ways than with ready cash," explained the duke.

Seymer then tried to get $125 out of the duke, but the duke put him off saying:

"I am playing golf with some rich American friends tomorrow. I will try to raise it from them."

FAILED TO TOUCH RICH MEN.

What happened on the golf links the duke explained on the witness stand. He testified:

"I was playing with two very rich fellows. The first one that I proposed to borrow from came hurrying up to me and said: 'Oh him (the duke's society sobriquet,) can you lend me a five ($25) over the week-end?' The other one also tried to borrow from me. So I had nothing myself and it was useless trying to borrow from them."

MANCHESTER, N. H., BOYS TO HAVE NEW BUILDING

Manchester, N. H. Jan. 25.—Manchester will have a new building for the boys' club within a year if the plans of the officers and trustees of the organization materialize. This was announced at the annual meeting of the club, held in the headquarters at the Granite Block, No. 805 Elm street. A brass band, the installation of motion pictures and an enlargement of the wood working shop are among other plans for the coming year.

How Less Than 2 Cents Profit Per Meal Built an $11,000,000 a Year Business

A Real Opportunity for the Small Investor

There is a great human story—a business romance—in how one poor man with his hard-earned savings and borrowings from friends started with only $1,800 and lived to see the idea grow into one of the largest chain of lunch rooms in the country, with restaurants in 28 different cities and assets of over $5,000,000—the Waldorf System, Inc.

No such remarkable success would have been possible had there been behind the project only the thought of profit. The foundation idea of the Waldorf System, Inc., was to establish lunch rooms of real public service in providing the people at large with food of unquestionable quality, correctly and uniformly prepared in absolutely clean, sanitary kitchens, at such a price as to place it within the reach of every man and woman, at a profit of but a few cents a meal.

The Waldorf idea of a better lunch room would not have been possible—because of the fractional profit—unless it gained the approval and good will of a great number of people, resulting in a great volume of sales. That the Waldorf idea has been extraordinarily successful is evidenced in the fact that in a year it now serves 36,000,000 meals in its lunch rooms throughout the various cities.

In the desire to increase that valuable good will and to establish closer relations with those it serves, Waldorf System, Inc., cordially invites every one of its patrons to become part owners in this great business by becoming owners of a small amount of its common stock, and thus share in the profits which their patronage helps to create. Waldorf System, Inc., has no common stock to sell and therefore, obviously, would not profit or receive one cent from such a purchase. The stock may be purchased—like any other stock—in the open market.

This Company would benefit indirectly in turning its customers into partners, so to speak, with all the natural increase in interest which ownership inspires in a customer of a business. This Company, therefore, desires to have its common stock owned by thousands of its customers, in small amounts, rather than owned by several hundred in larger amounts, as at present. This sound business policy has been advocated for years by the larger public utility companies which, like the Waldorf System, deal directly with thousands of people. Every encouragement is given by such companies to have its stock owned in small amounts by a large number of its customers. A representative example is the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, whose stock is owned by 138,000 different stockholders. America's greatest corporation, the United States Steel Corporation, is another conspicuous example, as the profits of that great enterprise are shared by nearly one hundred thousand people.

We have chosen this particular time to make this announcement, as this period affords the most striking evidence of the desirability of an investment in the common stock of the Waldorf System. Compare the steady growth and prosperity of the Waldorf System, Inc., right through the period of business depression, which, in a large number of cases, has entirely cut off the dividends of some of America's best known and heretofore most successful corporations. The fundamental reason for Waldorf prosperity is apparent—people must eat, however they may restrict other purchases.

But this alone does not explain the success of the Waldorf System, Inc.—why it is growing and has grown faster than any other chain of lunch rooms in the country. The real reason lies in the management. More than in any other system of lunch rooms in the country, the principles of scientific management have been applied, to a degree heretofore unknown in the restaurant field, by men who were pioneers in the lunch room business and who, through actual practical experience from the "counter" up, know every need of the business and of the public. Savings down to the tenth of a cent are watched in purchases and elsewhere so that the customer may be given the very best quality of food at the lowest possible price.

The Waldorf System, Inc., had its inception in the founding of the first Waldorf Lunch at Springfield, Mass., in 1904, with an initial investment of its founder of only $1,800. Its success led to the establishing of other lunch rooms in other cities, including the first one in Boston in 1906, until there were 38 restaurants in the system. Two other chains of lunch rooms—Baldwin, Incorporated, and Kinney & Woodward—had later been established and grown until they had, respectively, 7 and 14 stores. From the very first, all three systems had made quality of food and cleanliness a characteristic of their restaurants. To enlarge the possibilities of their service through the economies of one great purchasing power and to attain the many economies of centralization of management, these three systems, with 59 stores, were consolidated in April, 1919, as the Waldorf System, Inc.

This consolidation was unusual in that all three systems had been continuously under the management of their founders, who remained, and, with two exceptions, are active in the management of the present company. The value to investors of an able management, so fortified, cannot be overestimated. The success of the System is not dependent upon the life of one man or his ability. In the executive places are several men, all equally experienced, contributing their share of experience in council and equally able to take the helm in the event of the withdrawal or death of another. The faith that the founders had in the future possibilities and earning power of the Lunch Room as they operated it was again shown in the founders' accepting all stock in payment for the properties they had labored so many years to build up.

The rapidity of the growth of the Waldorf System, Inc., is strikingly shown in the fact that since April, 1919, 30 new restaurants have been added. In addition to opening a number of new stores in their own territory, the Waldorf System, Inc., has since consolidation acquired 9 stores operated by the Waldorf Co, of Providence, and 11 stores of the Porter Capitol System, located throughout Central New England. This is at the rate of one new restaurant every six weeks. It represents the remarkable increase—in less than two years—of fifty per cent of the chain of 59 when consolidated. The 89 restaurants in the Waldorf System, Inc., are distributed through 7 States and 28 cities.

One of the secrets of the success of the Waldorf System, Inc., management, is its exact knowledge of costs and its standardization of buying, equipment and service. In order to give the utmost in quality profits are kept so small that a restaurant doing a smaller business could not give the same quality and operate profitably. For instance, the average meal is 30 cents, yet this company makes less than 2 cents profit on it. More than three meals must be served before one dollar is taken in, in sales. Yet in the vast volume of business done, these few pennies profit per person total into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. In the 89 stores in 1920 there will be paid in about $11,000,000, and there will be served about 36,000,000 meals.

If you have never visited a Waldorf Lunch, do so and note the sweetness and purity of the air—no-appetite-taking atmosphere. Every lunch room has ventilation equipment of the most modern type, installed by ventilating engineers. Note, also, the rounded corners of the tile floors and walls, so that no dirt may lie concealed. In preserving the Waldorf high standard of cleanliness—in seen and unseen places—over 398,000 pounds of cleaning powder are used yearly.

In the Waldorf System nothing is left to guesswork. The location of a new store is determined with scientific accuracy by an actual count of the persons passing any point, and by other surveys. Locations are often planned two and three years in advance. As soon as a once profitable store shows a loss, due to change in local conditions, it is closed out. In this remarkable elasticity of the system as organized and conducted lies one of the most unusual and greatest safeguards of the investor's money.

The best and safest investment will have both stability and steadiness of earning power. The present business period has strikingly shown that an investment may be both safe and in a stable business, yet not possess a steady earning power. It profits an investor little to have his money in a stable business if it does not earn money for him steadily. Compare the record of the thousands of investments (whose earnings are now entirely cut off) to the record of earnings of the Waldorf System, Inc., during the same period of business depression.

The net earnings for 1919 were at the rate of $385,467 a year. Although the increased costs of provisions reduced the Company's profits per meal during 1920, the new restaurants acquired and the large increase in the volume of business, with careful, efficient management, enabled the Company to show net earnings at the rate of $626,703 for 1920. This record is interesting proof of the stability and steady earning power of the Waldorf System, Inc., inasmuch as 1920 included the period of business depression.

In 1919 dividends on the common stock were at the rate of 10% per year, cash dividend. In the year just closed, 1920, there were a cash dividend of 10% and two stock dividends of 5% each. Based on the present outlook we can see no reason why future earnings should not equal or exceed past earnings.

The common stock is listed on the Boston Stock Exchange. Neither this Company nor any of its officers has any common stock to sell. You may purchase this stock in any small amount you wish from any Stock Exchange Member. If you have no broker connection or if you are not familiar with investment matters and will write direct to us, we shall advise you where the stock may be purchased. Our only interest in the matter is to help you become a part owner—no matter how small—in a business which is affected less by "hard times" than any other business you can invest in.

DISPOSE OF 11 LIQUOR CASES IN 5 MINUTES

Manchester N. H., Jan. 25.—What is probably a new record for the wheels of justice was established in police court here when eleven cases, four of illegal possession and seven for drunkenness, were disposed of in less than five minutes. All of the defendants pleaded guilty.

DOGS DROWNED CHASING DEER OVER BROKEN ICE

Packerville, Ct., Jan. 25.—A buck and six wild deer broke through the ice on the upper waters of Packer Pond. Two dogs that had evidently been chasing them were drowned, but the herd broke its way through the ice to safety.

Don't Fear Exposure

Let the Remarkable Effect of Orangeine Offset the Worst Kind of Weather Dangers

Feet sopping wet, clothing damp, a feeling of chilliness, then a sneeze

If This Storm Gets Me I'll Beat It With Orangeine—It Has Booze Stopped Forty Ways for Sure Results

or two—just the combination that ORANGEINE puts to rout and saves you from a hard cold. A host of people keep ORANGEINE on hand to break up a cold and all its train of headache, pains, neuralgia, rheumatism, exhaustion, grippe and the restlessness that robs the system of sleep.

ORANGEINE is a real remedy. Its action is quick, you get relief almost at once, but it is sure, certain, it never misses fire. If you are subject to headache, from whatever cause, always remember that ORANGEINE is your sure, safe refuge. Get a package from any druggist. The full formula is given in every package so you may know what you are taking.

ORANGEINE is put up in either tablets or powders, as preferred.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin—pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores, and do not get them out after they become hard. The calonite powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method. —Advertisement.

HEALING CREAM STOPS CATARRH

Clogged Air Passages Open at Once—Nostrils Cleared

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Advertisement.

Sees Better Boston Under Prohibition

Drunkenness decreased two-thirds, occupancy of jails diminished and alcohol cases in hospitals greatly reduced are some of the effects of prohibition in Boston, cited by Deeds Pickett in a special article issued by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The article is one of a series entitled "The Workings of Prohibition in America," and has for its heading, "What Prohibition Is Doing to and for Boston, Mass."

Boston is hardly "an ideal field for a prohibition test," according to the writer, having been one of the most secure strongholds of John Barleycorn in the bad old days. He therefore emphasizes the significance of any improvement in the city's annals of crime as an indication of the power for good exercised by the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution.

"Judge prohibition by what it does, not by what it does not do," is his introduction. "If a political fight develops in an American city involving an attack on the police department and the newspapers shriek in their headlines of a 'crime wave,' do not jump to the conclusion that prohibition has not reduced crime. Dig down below the surface and get the actual facts; find whether or not conditions have altered for better or for worse and whether or not prohibition has had anything to do with their altering."

IMPROVES BUSINESS.

In Boston, he proceeds, prohibition has "not merely done what was expected of it, but far more than could legitimately have been expected. It has reduced crime, had a favorable effect on business and is 'indicated,' as the doctors say, as a relief agent in the treatment of all social ills."

Letters from the Police Department, the Boston City Hospital, the Massachusetts General Hospital, the Massachusetts Reformatory for Women at Sherborn and other institutions bear out his statements with figures. According to a letter from Thomas Ryan, chief clerk for the police commissioner, under date of last November, there were 52,682 arrests for drunkenness in 1919 as against only 16,487 in 1920; for non-support, 862 in 1919, 584 in 1920; disorderly conduct, 429 in 1919, 116 in 1920; assault, 2,127 in 1919, 1,672 in 1920.

The drink habit, he points out, has a close bearing on all these offences, also on the welfare of the home and the proper treatment of wives and children. He quotes Miss Mary Beard, president of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, as follows:

HER BABY CARRIAGE.

"A nurse was hailed from across the street by a woman who was an ex-patient. 'Come over and see my baby carriage,' she said. 'In ten years, with eight children to carry around in my arms, I have never been able to buy a baby carriage. Now, thanks to prohibition, I have a baby carriage instead of Jack hanging around at the corner saloon.'

Another case is cited of a family destitute through the drinking habits of the father, until prohibition intervened. Then, runs the story, "the impossible seemed to happen. The man went to work and kept at work. After a time he suggested that they move to a better location as he did not think his neighbors were very nice. Now wife and children are much better clothed; new furniture has been bought and the entire family standards are changed."

That prohibition is the direct cause of many of these improvements, the writer indicates by citing a similar case. The mother has grown happier and younger, but said to the visitor: "He's the same Bill; believe me he'd get it if he could." Her great fear is that the law will one day be repealed.

The decrease in drunkenness throughout the State is nearly as notable as that in Boston, as comparison of the follwing tables will show:

Arrests for Drunkenness in Boston Before and After Prohibition in 1919-1920

1920	16,487

Arrests For Drunkenness in Massachusetts

1919	77,925
1920	36,463

HERBERT C. PARSONS, Deputy Commissioner of Probation.

Reduction in the attendance at penal institutions shows the effects of prohibition from another angle, according to Mr. Pickett. He quotes the letter of a public official from one community who says: "The jails here are practically empty and the criminal courts are practically out of business. That tells the story."

Figures on commitments to institutions in Massachusetts show a striking change, in the following charts:

Massachusetts Prison Population For Two Years

1919	3,173
1920	2,278—Drop of 28 per cent.

State Department of Correction.

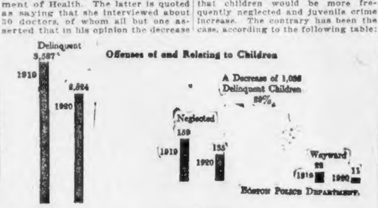
Massachusetts Reformatory For Women—Sherborn

Total Commitments For All Causes 1919	271
Total Commitments For All Causes 1920	118
Drunkenness 1919	34
Drunkenness 1920	8 (5 in first 2 months)

A letter from one Boston institution formerly devoted to treatment of alcoholic and drug cases entirely says that the place has now been turned into an old ladies' home.

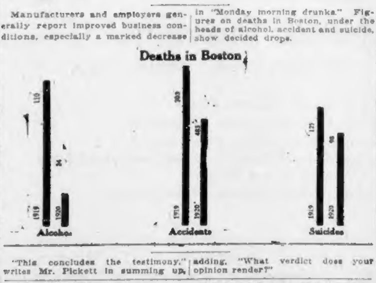
Social diseases, which were made reportable, dating from February 1, 1918, have greatly decreased, according to statements by Miss Amy Woods, general secretary of the League for Preventive Work, and Dr. Mary R. Lakeman of the State Department of Health. The latter is quoted as saying that she interviewed about 30 doctors, of whom all but one asserted that in his opinion the decrease in drinking had reduced the number of exposures to such disease.

One of the most marked effects of reduced drinking is where children are concerned. Not only are there fewer cases of neglected children in the courts and in the experience of social workers, but there is a great diminution of juvenile delinquency. Editor Pickett points out that under the present system, which opens fields of industry hitherto closed to women, it might have been expected that children would be more frequently neglected and juvenile crime increase. The contrary has been the case, according to the following table:



Manufacturers and employers generally report improved business conditions, especially a marked decrease in "Monday morning drunks." Figures on deaths in Boston, under the heads of alcohol, accident and suicide, show decided drops.

Deaths in Boston



"This concludes the testimony," writes Mr. Pickett in summing up, adding, "What verdict does your opinion render?"

SYMPHONY HERE FROM CHICAGO WELL DRILLED

Boston Greets Stock as Earnest and Intelligent Conductor of Great Band

By FRED J. McISAAC.

For the first time in a decade the Chicago Symphony Orchestra paid a visit to Boston, and showed us last evening in Symphony Hall how the great band founded by Theodore Thomas is getting along.

The conductor is Frederick Stock, who has had the advantage of conducting this orchestra for a dozen years, except for an interlude when he went into retirement because he was a German who hadn't become one of our citizens, and there was a war on with the formerly celebrated Germany.

Unlike Boston, which rushed to France for its conductors, Chicago brought Stock back when the disturbance was over.

The Chicago orchestra is a very well-drilled and skillful body of musicians. The tone of the orchestra is rich, sonorous and mellow. The technical accomplishments of the players compare favorably with any orchestra in the world, and its discipline reflects credit upon Mr. Stock.

Frederick Stock is an earnest, hardworking and intelligent conductor. If he lacks the marvelous gift of Toscanini to get effects from a composition that even the composer might not realize were possible, he is familiar with the traditions of the classic symphonies and follows beaten paths.

Last night he chose for his piece de resistance the Second Symphony of Rachmaninow, a huge work in the modern style by the greatest of living Russian composers. Rachmaninow is in this country. Doubtless he has gone over the work with Mr. Stock.

At any rate, the performance was really a brilliant one and displayed the proficiency of the orchestra in unmistakable fashion.

Arnold Bax, a young English composer, who like most English composers, turns out to be Irish in blood, figured on the program with a symphonic poem, "The Garden of Fand." This is a tone poem depicting the sea as a place of enchantment, painting its calms and its treachery. A very interesting work, full of exquisite tonal effects and moving along in a manner a bit suggestive of Debussy. Mr. Stock met Bax last Summer and received this tone poem from his hands. It has not been published.

There was a performance of "The Magic Flute" overture, which was without distinguishing features, and then Mr. Stock went boldly up to Toscanini and demanded a comparison for he played the "Prelude and Lovedeath" from "Tristan."

Mr. Stock is a good musician and conductor, but he had no more conception of the great bursts of passion, the sublime lyricism, the glorious climaxes which the tempestuous Toscanini read into that music than an organ grinder. His lovedeath was correct, polite, uninspired. It left the audience cold.

While he got an overture after the Rachmaninow Overture, he got a few scattering handclaps after the Lovedeath. ePrhaps if we had heard Toscanini play the Rachmaninow work, that ovation might have been tempered, but that is conjecture. Anyway, Mr. Stock had better look up the Toscanini route and avoid further comparisons as the Chicago Orchestra travels along its way.

WOMAN WASHING WINDOW PLUNGES TO HER DEATH

Mrs. Anna Weinberg, sixty-five years old, of No. 400 Tremont street, South End, was fatally injured by a fall from a second-story window at her home. She had been washing the outer side of the glass and was seated on the sill. According to witnesses, she lost her balance and pitched suddenly to the pavement below. She was rushed to the City Hospital by a passing autoist, but was pronounced dead upon her arrival.

Mrs. Weinberg was the wife of Louis Weinberg, who is at present instructor of languages at Woodridge, N. Y. She is survived by her husband, three sons and two daughters.

VETS TO OBTAIN APOLOGY FOR 'INSULT'

Lawrence Alderman Scheduled to Make Statement at Tonight's Council Meeting

Lawrence, Jan. 25.—The Lawrence City Hall Auditorium will be the setting tonight for one of the liveliest battles the Lawrence veterans have participated in since their return to civilian life. Alderman Michael F. Scanlon, Commissioner of Public Property and Parks, is expected to make the public apology demanded of him by the Lawrence Post of the American Legion.

"I have arranged to have the meeting in the main hall," said Mayor William P. White. "It was there that Alderman Scanlon made the alleged displeasing remarks about the veterans and it is there that he should offer his apology if he sees fit."

While the Lawrence Alderman, who declared that some of the ex-service men in his employ "were never within 500 miles of battle," has declined to discuss the situation, his friends say that he will apologize.

Alderman Scanlon had discharged fourteen ex-service men when he took office and it was during a public remonstrance of his act that the alleged insult to veterans of the World War was made. The members of the Lawrence post of the American Legion and the post of veterans of foreign wars alike, have resented the distinction the alderman made between soldiers who were drafted and those who volunteered.

Alderman Scanlon said that he may re-employ another of the discharged veterans, making three that he has rehired on laborers' jobs, "because of their splendid war records." It was shown that at least three of the discharged men had been wounded or gassed in action in France. One saw service in the Civil War.

Friends of the veterans outside the Legion are planning a recall move and it is certain that the Legion will act in the event that the public apology demanded is not made tonight. Mayor White will preside.

FREE SEEDS WIN BY $365,000 APPROPRIATION

Washington, Jan. 25.—Free seeds—the bone of contention in every Congress—have won a victory. The House passed an amendment to the agriculture appropriation bill appropriating $356,000 for free seeds for Congressmen to distribute to their constituents. The amendment was introduced by Representative Langley of Kentucky and was carried by the combined vote of Southern Democrats and mid-Western Republicans.

MOB OF 10,000 FIGHTS POLICE IN INDIA

London, Jan. 25.—The Daily Express publishes a dispatch dated Monday from Allahabad, India, which declares that sixty houses were destroyed during riots in the Fyzabad district.

Large forces of armed police with a motor train have left Lucknow for the scene of the disturbance. The mob is declared to number 10,000 with more concentrating at Fyzabad. The rioters threaten that they will annihilate the police on January 27.

The police have suggested that the military be called out, but the governor insists that the police quell the rioters.

It is said that two English boys at Allahabad caused the trouble by shooting pigeons with a catapult. The hostile crowds regard the birds as sacred.

Compelled to seek refuge at the police station the English officers tried to disperse the crowd. The mob stoned the fire brigade which turned out by mistake. The soldiers eventually dispersed the crowds, arresting seventeen and sending several to the hospital.

Radcliffe Girls Laud Fire Heroine

Radcliffe girls are lauding the quick wit and action of Miss Loretto Jordan, heroine of the recent Bertram Hall fire in which the fourth floor of the dormitory was damaged by flames and most of the girls' clothing was ruined by water. When the fire was discovered, starting in the maids' apartments, Miss Jordan rang in an alarm and then returned three times to the burning building to help carry out property.

Fellow students declared that throughout the excitement Miss Jordan was "calm and jolly," and that without her courage and prompt action the dormitory would have been destroyed.

INSURES LAWRENCE FUNDS AGAINST THEFT

Lawrence, Jan. 25.—To protect the city treasurer's office against possible holdups and robberies during the wave of crime prevalent, Mayor William P. White has taken out policies with an insurance company, the premiums of which will run into hundreds of dollars. This is the first time that public money was insured against theft in this city, according to officials.

FIREMAN AND DAUGHTER OVERCOME BY GAS

Fall River, Jan. 25.—Thomas E. Buckley, a well-known member of the fire department, Mrs. Buckley and their daughter, Margaret, had a frightful experience with illuminating gas at their home. Mrs. Buckley was the first to notice the presence of gas and when she went to the assistance of her husband and daughter they were so affected that they were unable to walk. Both were revived by a physician.

2,000 SEAMEN DESERT FOREIGN SHIPS IN U. S.

New York, Jan. 25.—Two thousand seamen have deserted ships entering this country in the last two months, thus evading the rigorous immigration tests, Commissioner of Immigration Wallis said. In many cases these seamen were criminals and undesirables.

BEWARE, YOU DRY SCOFFERS, OF DEPORTATION

"We Put Emma Goldman in Russia," Warns Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League

New York, Jan. 25.—Fall into the lockstep of prohibition or live semi-aridly in fear of a booze deportation. The good ship Buford took Emma Goldman to Russia and The Wabble, which despite its name maintains a sober equilibrium, may be hoisted from drydock and its cabins, replete with ice water, thrown open for Eighteenth Amendment scoffers. The destination most probably will be within the Arctic Circle.

This much was gathered today after William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, issued an ultimatum. Said Anderson:

"New York is going to determine whether prohibition will succeed in America. Never mind Kansas—a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and New York is now the weak member of the Prohibition link.

"I say to those who are not in favor of the enforcement law, to go voluntarily, or we shall send them, where we put Emma Goldman, for instance, who now realizes that she was better off in an American jail than in free Russia.

Anderson addressed the union meeting and "Pussyfoot" Johnson also was there.

"If prohibition is enforced in New York city as thoroughly as it is in other parts of America," said Johnson, "the entire world will follow our footsteps. But if America fails civilization at this moment, the cause of prohibition is dead for a hundred years."

England will follow America in ten years if prohibition in the United States really prohibits," "Pussyfoot" quoted Premier Lloyd George as having declared recently.

BOY CHARGED WITH DISTURBING THEATRE

A disturbance caused by boys in a South End theatre found its way into Municipal Court yesterday, when Leo Ayoub, nineteen years old, of Oak place, South End, was arraigned before Judge Murray for disturbing a public assembly. He was found guilty and his case placed on file.

PERSONALS

Mr. James Roche of 1353 Second Ave., New York City, writes that he was cured of bronchitis which had developed from influenza, after taking Father John's Medicine, and has returned to business.

Recently Mrs. S. Clement of 307 Lemoyne St., Syracuse, N. Y., said that she used Father John's Medicine as a body building tonic after a serious case of pneumonia and is now entirely well again.

For New Styles and Pretty Arms

(Beauty Notes)

Women are fast learning the value of the use of delatone for removing hair or fuzz from face, neck or arms. A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on the hairy surface. In 2 or 3 minutes it is rubbed off, the skin washed and every bit of hair has disappeared. No failure will result if you are careful to buy genuine delatone and mix fresh as wanted.—Advertisement.

Reduce Your Fat Without Dieting

Years ago the formula for fat reduction was "diet"—"exercise." Today it is "Take Marmola Prescription Tablets." Friends tell friends—doctors tell their patients, until thousands know and use this convenient, harmless method. They eat what they like, live as they like, and still lose their two, three or four pounds of fat a week. Simple, effective, harmless Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists—a large case for one dollar. Or if you prefer you may write direct to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.—Advertisement.

College Girls of Today Huskier Than in 60's

These contrasting figures are the typical college girl of today and her grandmother of the 60's, showing how the modern maid's loose and comfortable clothing have increased her weight and added an inch to her height over the wasp-waisted girl of crinoline days.

Miss College Girl of today is an inch taller and at least six pounds heavier than her grandmother of the 60's.

Furthermore, she is healthier and stronger, to say nothing of being broader minded and better educated.

Dr. McKenzie's findings, based upon the figures covering years, are amply sustained by Miss Rachel Hardwick, director of physical education at the Boston University.

OUT DOOR LIFE BIG AID.

Dr. MacKenzie attributes the increase in health, weight and strength to growth of interest among the fairer sex in sports and outdoor life. So does Miss Hardwick.

Speaking only of Boston University Miss Hardwick explains why the students there are physically so much superior to their grandmammas.

"To begin with they eat more sensible food than the women of former generations did. Then they take more exercise in the open air. They have abandoned corsets save perhaps for a small girdle, and they wear sensible shoes and woolen stockings.

"In fact, the broad shoe-wool stocking vogue has caught on here to such an extent that it has already made appreciable difference in the health of the students.

FAINTING LOST ITS CHARM.

"But when I come to compare the health habits of the present generation with those of their grandmothers—well, there is no real comparison.

"In these Victorian days it was all the style for girls to faint—it made them interesting. If they were pale they were more interesting, and if they had small appetites they were most interesting.

"And if, on top of all that, they could manage to squeeze their waists until they resembled wasps, or hour glasses, why, they took the eye and admiration of all beholders.

"And then their baths in those days. We all of us know how the weekly bath was made to suffice for the week, and how night air, regarded as deadly, was barred from all bed rooms as so much poison. It was supposed to breed distemper.

"And the girls of those days never by any chance entered a gymnasium—it would have been unutterably vulgar.

"To play ball was vulgar, to play tennis 'hoydenish,' to swim 'too masculine'; any exercise save that of mincing walking was 'unladylike.'

DRESS MORE SENSIBLY.

"It is no wonder that the race of college girls and their sisters out of college, is going forward by leaps and bounds, now that all those foolish prohibitions have been lifted.

"The girl of today is more likely to err in her shoes than in anything else in her dress. She still wears silly high-heeled shoes too much, although I will say that the college girl is abandoning these for the more sensible form.

HARVARD BAND WILL PLAY IN MANY CITIES

The Harvard Band will give its annual concert tonight at the Harvard Club on Commonwealth avenue. The entire band of fifty pieces will play with six violins and 'cellos. Among the places to be visited by the band later in the year are Haverhill, Quincy, Arlington, Natick, Framingham, Wellesley, Worcester, Springfield, Albany, Rochester, Utica, New York City and Buffalo.

LYNN LOOT WORTH $300 FOUND IN SOUTH BOSTON

Three hundred dollars' worth of jewelry, furs and clothing, stolen from the home of Peter Podfie at Villa place, Lynn, on September 26, 1920, was recovered by three Lynn police inspectors in a South Boston house. The house, according to the police, is occupied by relatives of Herman Sobeck, who is now serving a year in the Lynn jail for the larceny.

POSTAL SAVINGS HERE THIRD LARGEST IN U. S.

Boston is now the third city in the country in postal savings deposits. This was stated in a letter received today from the Postoffice Department at Washington by Postmaster Baker. The letter compliments Postmaster Baker on the showing of this district saying that the deposits increase from $2,586,355 July 1, 1920, to $4,134,631 December 21.

SENATOR PHELAN APPEALS FOR O'CALLAGHAN

"Blot Upon Our Escutcheon to Deport Him," He Writes Davis; Recalls Kossuth

Washington, Jan. 25.—Senator Phelan, of California, appealed to the State Department to waive its order for the deportation of Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork.

"I think it will be a blot upon our escutcheon if we deport the Lord Mayor of Cork," the Senator wrote Acting Secretary of State Norman H. Davis. The letter follows in full:

RECALLS KOSSUTH.

"Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork although here irregularly, is a political refugee and was urged to come by the Committee of One Hundred on Ireland to give testimony. Kossuth was not only deported but he was brought to America for his own safety in an American warship and given a reception in the House of Representatives as the exponent of Hungarian Independence fleeing from the tyranny of Austria, a country with which we were on friendly terms at that time. Daniel Webster, in his speech of Grecian independence, laid down the American principles governing those matters.

"I think it will be a blot upon our escutcheon if we deport the lord mayor of Cork, both of whose predecessors were victims of the English policy of extermination and reprisal, and whose life, I am told, is also in grave danger.

URGES U. S. BE HAVEN.

"A decision by the United States now to protect political refugees would be in line with our traditional policy and would be a cheering word to the oppressed of other lands. I understand the State Department has the power to waive passport requirements."

U. S. INCOME TAX BLANKS ARE SENT OUT

50,000 in $5,000 or Less Class to Be Mailed Each Day This Week

The Internal Revenue office today began the work of forwarding 271,345 Federal income tax blanks to that number of persons who had incomes of less than $5,000 last year. Each day this week, Collector John J. Mitchell will send out by mail 50,000 of these blanks and it is expected that by Saturday each taxable person in this class will be provided with one.

Collector Mitchell stated today that 350,000 of all kinds of tax returns were filed last year. Of these returns 271,000 were individual returns on incomes of less than $5,000; 32,000 over $5,000; 17,000 corporations; 7,000 partnership, 6,000 fiduciary and a few thousand more miscellaneous.

All of these returns will not come back, Collector Mitchell stated, as business conditions the latter part of last year affected the incomes of so many that it is estimated that about 50,000 who filed for 1919 did not receive enough in 1920 to make a return.

GUIDE FOR TAXPAYERS.

In speaking of the new taxpayers added to the list each year, Collector Mitchell said: "There are others who did not receive sufficient income in 1919 to make a return and who, in 1920, made over $1,000. These new taxpayers will have to apply for forms either to the collector's office in the Little Building, Boston, or the branches in other parts of the State.

"The burden of fulfilling this obligation is laid on the shoulders of those who are American citizens or residents, and each must determine for himself whether his income for 1920 was sufficient in amount to require a return.

"If he is single a return is required if his net income was $1,000 or over. A widow or widower is classified as a single person. A man or woman living apart from his wife or husband is also classed as a single person.

TAXPAYERS MUST TAKE OATH.

"If he is married and living with his wife on December 31 a return is required if the net income for 1920 was $2,000 or over. In his net income he must include that of his wife and minor children, if any.

"Forms contain instructions for preparing and filing the return and these should be read carefully and strictly observed. There is also provided a work sheet which the taxpayer can use in making original computations and when he feels that this is correct the figures can be put on the return sheet and filed. The work sheet should be retained by the taxpayer and preserved for reference.

"When the return is completed the taxpayer will have it properly executed by taking an oath that the statements it contains are true. Any internal revenue officer will administer the oath without charge and these officers will be stationed at different parts of the State for this purpose. Accuracy in compiling the return is necessary; mere guesses or estimates as to income and deductions should be avoided and the actual facts and amounts set forth."

BIG FISH CARGOES ARRIVE AT PIER

A big fleet of vessels arrived at the fish pier with approximately 1,150,000 pounds of fresh groundfish. The receipts were among the heaviest for a Winter's day in many years, and were not far short of the total for the six market days of last week. Despite the big supply the demand was brisk and good prices were obtained by the skippers from the sales on the exchange. Haddock sold for 4 to cents a pound, large cod for 8 to 8½ cents; market cod for 4 cents; pollock for 7 to 8 cents, large hake for 12 cents, medium for 6 cents, small hake for 3 cents; flounders 6 cents and gray soles 7½ cents.

CAMPAIGN FOR $95,000 NURSE FUND OPENS

Campaigning for the $95,000 fund which the budget committee is raising this week for the District Nurse Association began under the direction of Mrs. John L. Grandin. A subscription of $1,000 made by John S. Ames, was the largest contribution up o non today, though there were several ranging frm $250 to $700 each. The Boston Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit Association gave $100. Miss Mary Beard, director of the organization, spoke on the work of the association at the Junior League luncheon.

FIND WRECKAGE OF SHIP 200 MILES OFF BOSTON

Captain Wait of the Shipping Board steamship Merrymount, in from Rotterdam, via Brest, yesterday reported that 200 miles east of Boston she had passed considerable wreckage of a sailing vessel which had evidently met disaster in the northwest gales of last week. Included in the wreckage were spars with rigging attached and other evidences that the vessel had recently gone down. None of the wreck could be identified. The Merrymount came in leaking and will have to go into drydock.

CITY PRINTERS' STRIKE IS PUT UP TO MAYOR

Settlement of the strike of eighty city printers for an increase of $4 per week was put up to Mayor Peters today when the unanimous request of the City Council that he confer with representatives of the Allied Printing Trades Council was laid before him.

Mayor Peters has, up to this time, steadfastly refused to deal with the men or their representatives, asserting there is nothing to arbitrate.

MASKED GUNMEN ROB LAWRENCE STOREMAN

Lawrence, Jan. 25.—When Alex Diasazzio, proprietor of a provision store at No. 230½ Elm street, refused to turn over the contents of his till to two masked gunmen, at the point of revolvers, they struck him over the head with the butt of a revolver, took several hundred dollars from his pockets and cash register and fled.

Zena Keefe

AFTER seeing Zena Keefe in films you might expect to find, when you meet her, an ingenue with a demure manner. What you do find is an energetic girl with wide-set brown eyes, dark, curly hair, a lively interest in what's going on around her, and great enthusiasm for her work.

She has been acting since she was a child and has worked always with the determination—not to just hope—to become a star. She's there now and it has meant hard work.

"People don't realize what going into the movies means," she said when she was here the other day. "Every day I get quantities of letters from utter strangers asking me to get them into pictures. As if I could do it for them!

"Everybody has a sneaking idea that he or she is a born movie player. Nobody considers what a part 'screening' plays. A screen face is impossible to explain in set terms, but no actor can get into movies without it. It's something that one either has or hasn't and the only way to pick one is to take a film test.

SELDOM SEE PICTURES.

"SOMETIMES a girl who is a perfect beauty comes into the studio. Everybody exclaims that she's a find, then they take a few feet of film and find that though her features are perfectly regular, she just hasn't a 'screen face.' On the other hand, the plainest people in the world sometimes screen magnificently, and no one can explain how or why.

"I like to go to the movies, but I seldom have time because I'm so busy making them. In fact, almost the only times I see pictures—even my own—are when I'm away from home. While I'm in Boston I'm going to see 'Way Down East.' Although it's been playing in New York for some time I haven't had a chance to see it yet.

"When I'm watching other people's films I often get inspirations for my own work. I see something that gives me an idea for a scene in my next picture and make plans to use it, but when the time comes I've utterly forgotten the idea and play the part as I feel it then.

"Each role is as real to me as if I actually lived it. I never see beyond the set. If the villain comes on the scene and shoves a gun into my face I can't see beyond the gun, or at any rate, beyond the man behind it. There may be another set directly behind him and they may be taking all sorts of wild scenes, but I'm not conscious of it.

THE THRILL OF ACTING

"PEOPLE often ask me what I think about when I'm playing; whether my mind is on the theme of the play of whether I'm thinking of what D'Annunzio is trying to do to Fiume or who's the man who voted for Cox or something line that. What would anyone think when the wrong end of the gun is a few inches from his face? He's half frightened and half figuring out how to get out of the situation. In acting it's just the same. Even though I know what's going to happen and how I'm going to get out of it it's subconscious knowledge. I'm really worked up over it and act spontaneously.

"It's the most fascinating work in the world," she said. "You're always finding a way to make it grow and to improve it. I'm going back to New York Monday to start on a new picture and I can scarcely wait to get out on the set with the lights and the cameras and hear the director shout, 'Ready! Camera! Shoot!'"

"OUTSIDE THE LAW."

"OUTSIDE THE LAW," now playing at the Park Theatre, is unusual for several reaso's, chief of which are Priscilla Dean and Lon Chaney.

Priscilla Dean's characterization of a girl-crook, who is a crook because she wants to be, not because she's driven into it, is a relief after seeing the usual pale and languid heroine, who looks so out of place in the underworld. Miss Dean is an energetic, daring, animated girl, who is bound to make good at whatever she takes up—even when it's stealing jewels.

The other feature of the picture is Lon Chaney's acting. Since his portrayal of the Frog in "The Miracle Man" his work has grown steadily, and he is in great demand for screen villainy. "East is East and West is West," but Chaney sees that they meet in this picture. He slips with the greatest ease from the character of Black Mike Silva, the master-crook of San Francisco's Chinatown, to Ah Wing, a Chinese servant. Each part is played with a finish and an intensity that lifts the film from the usual run of pictures.

PRISCILLA FASCINATING.

IN "Outside the Law" "Silent" Madden, a reformed crook, is railroaded to prison by his enemy, "Black Mike" Silva. His daughter, Mary, otherwise known as "Silky Moll," gives up all ideas of reform in order to revenge herself on Silva.

With the help of Bill Ballard, one of Silva's men, she double-crosses "Black Mike" in a jewel robbery and later brings about his death and her father's release.

Priscilla Dean as Molly Madden is vivid and fascinating. She throws herself into the part and brings out best points. Chaney shares honors with her as "Black Mike," and Wheeler Oakman is convincing as the hero, Bill Ballard.

CAMERA CLICKS

MARGUERITE CLARK, who retired from the screen last year, is coming back soon in the film version of "Scrambled Wives," one of this year's Broadway successes.

• • •

• • •

VERA GORDON, who won success as the mother in "Humoresque," is now playing in vaudeville in "Lullaby," a one-act piece especially written for her by Edgar Allen Wolff.

• • •

BILLIE BURKE'S stage success, "Jerry," is to be filmed with Mary Miles Minter in the title role.

• • •

MARYLAND MORNE, who was last seen "In the Heart of a Fool," has turned writer. In between pictures she is writing a story based on the life of Edgar Allan Poe.

• • •

MADGE BELLAMY, who made such a hit in "Dear Brutus" with William Gillette, has been signed up as a leading lady in Thomas Ince's productions. In her first picture she will support Hobart Bosworth.

CITY COUNCIL TO FIGHT PROBATION SALARY BILL

City councillors are prepared to fight the latest legislative attempt to clip their power. The council went on record as being unanimously opposed to the passage of House Bill 476 which gives the chief justice the right to determine the salaries of probation officers.

Mayor Peters, on two or three occasions, has refused to approve the salaries set by the justices of municipal courts and sent down to him for approval, asserting they were too high.

Stout Women Everywhere Are Talking About the New

$5.00 Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets

These women refuse to wear any others, because the invaluable hygienic features of Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets have benefited their health, reduced their size and lightened their weight to a marked degree.

Added to these merits is the assurance that they will wear twice as long as other corsets and retain their shape as long as they last. At $5.00 they set a new standard of value for high grade corsets.

Only the united effort of the manufacturer and retailer has made possible this Economy Sale of Nemo Nos. 620, 622 and 626 in all sizes at $5.00

WALSH ORDERS BETHLEHEM RECORDS

Wants to Fix Status of Schwab Expense Voucher for $269,543.53

New York, Jan. 25.—Following further testimony today before the Walsh Congressional Committee at the Hotel Pennsylvania, given by Eugene D. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Chairman Joseph Walsh of the committee asked for all the papers and records of the concern as affecting its business relations with the United States Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Chairman Walsh said the committee wanted to clean up definitely the status of the voucher for $269,543.53 declared to have been for the personal expenses of Charles M. Schwab for the month of October, 1918, when he was head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The sum of $100,000 of this amount, it had been testified by two previous witnesses, was charged off by the Bethlehem Corporation to ship construction for the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Mr. Schwab, Mr. Grace and Paul D. Cravath, general counsel for the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, were all present when the session opened and Mr. Grace was the first witness called.

Grace said that at no time had it been intended by the Bethlehem corporation to charge the item of $100,000 to the Emergency Fleet Corporation and that the whole voucher amount was purely a company business matter. He said its final disposition, as shown by the books, was at the disposal of the comptrollers. He reiterated that as a matter of fact the amount had been charged off on the profit and loss account. Mr. Grace submitted a photographic copy of the voucher which proved, according to this copy, to have written across its face, "For special expenses," and not, as had been previously testified, for the personal expenses of Mr. Schwab.

Mr. Grace denied that there had been on the books of the corporation $339,000 of misplaced accounts, as had been testified by Perley Morse. Mr. Morse is head of the auditing firm which was working on the books of the corporation until the audit was suddenly stopped by the discovery of the $269,000 voucher.

Test Use of Oil Shells to Calm Angry Seas

Shells filled with a gallon of oil and fired at angry waves by U. S. Life Guards will calm them, according to tests made by H. S. Parker of Cohasset.

He says, "These shells, filled with a gallon of oil, fired at low force powder charge, would scatter the oil on the surface of the water. A barrage of such shells to the windward of a wreck, would produce a sufficiently smooth sea to enable a life boat to make a safe approach from the shore to the wreck. These oil shells are now being tested."

MAN, HORSES, SLEIGH GO THROUGH THE ICE

Meredith, N. H., Jan. 25.—A sleigh driven by Joseph Gallier and drawn by a pair of horses crashed through thin ice into the waters of Lake Winnipesaukee today. Gallier was making a short cut across the ice from Mile Point to a sawmill. The ice was about twenty inches thick, but Gallier's turnout struck a weak spot and went through. Gallier crawled back to the ice and, after securing assistance, rescued his horses.

Harvard Helps Hoover

The drive for the Hoover fund to feed starving children of Europe, which is closing this week at Harvard, reached $7,500 this morning.

By International News Service.

Rockledge, Fla., Jan. 25.—President-elect Harding dedicated a new golf course today at Vero, fifty miles south of here. The houseboat Victoria, with Mr. Harding and his party on board, left Rockledge early today and cruised down the river to Paradise Landing, from whence they motored three miles through dense tropical jungles to the Vero course.

Mr. Harding had a pleasant visit today with C. B. Kling, his brother-in-law, who is wintering here, and greeted scores of inhabitants and Winter residents who flocked about the Victoria.

HHe has not gone swimming as yet, for, while the weather is warm, the water of the tidal inlet is chilled.

Members of the party indicated today it was possible that the Senate, called in extra session by President Wilson to confirm the Cabinet appointments, might remain in session until President Harding calls Congress into extra session late in March or early in April.

The object of this course, it was explained, would be to allow the confirmation of scores of important appointments which Harding is expected to make after March 4 and to allow the officials concerned to begin to function at once.

Among the appointments may be those of the Shipping Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

CALLS HARVARD CLASS ROOMS 'FIRE TRAPS'

Crimson Says "Sentiment Must Give Way to Common Sense" to Save Life

Sentiment must sometimes give way to common sense, declares the Harvard Crimson editorially today, in asking that the university authorities take measures to do away with the "fire traps" which serve the students as class rooms.

The Crimson, which is the college daily, after citing the fact that a number of fires have taken place in dormitories within the past few years, but without loss of life, adds:

"But could the same be said if a fire were to break out in Sever or in Harvard halls?"

"Weak flooors, plaster walls and wooden stairways are not conducive to the safety of the hundreds who make use of these recitations halls each day. Nor does the absence of adequate fire escapes improve conditions.

True, Sever boatats a well-hidden system of chain ladders as antiquated as they are inefficient, and Harvare has its vines and roof-balcony; but the only effective work which these apprtenances can accomplish is to cause the imprisoned undergraduate to spend valuable lecture hours in wondering whether it would be better in case of fire, to trust to the firemen or slide down a rain pipe.

"There should be at least some measure of safety assured to those who seek education at a higher university. Although it may be considered sacrilege to aborn historic buildings with such prosaic things as fire escapes, yet sentiment must sometimes give way to common sense."

Calcutta Doctor Claims Leprosy Cure

London, Jan. 25.—The Daily News publishes an interview with Sir Leonard Rogers, professor of pathology at Calcutta, who claims to have discovered a treatment for leprosy which may result in permanent cures.

He is said to have followed the work of Dr. Heiser, an American practising in the Philippines, who took up the work in 1915. Rogers discovered the value of salt with a preparation of chaulmoogra oil, which Dr. Heiser first used successfully as an injection.

Rogers' improvement enabled injections to be made intravenously with greater effect on the disease, destroying the leprosy bacillus. In one case a leper recovered his sight. Others regained the sense of touch. One man who could not walk 200 yards now walks ten miles. Several cases have remained apparently cured two and a half years.

DUTY ON HIDES OPPOSED BY SHOE MEN

New England Association Appeals to Congressmen to Fight 15 P. C. Tax

The New England Shoe and Leather Association is conducting a campaign against the proposed 15 per cent. duty on hides.

Every New England Senator and Representative has been asked to vote against the duty.

The association, representing all branches of the allied shoe and leather industries in this section, is convinced that a hide duty would be injurious to tanner, shoe manufacturer and consumer alike, with no compensating benefits.

"For the last six months the shoe and leather industries have been struggling through the most severe period of deflation the trade ever experienced," runs the letter from President Harry I. Thayer of the association to New England legislators.

"As we approach a stable market and confidently anticipate a renewal of business activity we are confronted with the proposed tax on hides. We are smitten in the house of our friends.

"We have developed the manufacture of leather and shoes on a level of such exceptional efficiency that the people of this country have enjoyed footwear of superior style and quality on the basis of the lowest European prices.

"Is it in appreciation of this service that we are now threatened with an unscientific and unjust tax upon our basic raw material?

"We urge you with all the earnestness which we are able to express that you use your utmost effort to prevent the passage of this most unjust, unnecessary and uneconomic tax."

Missed Church Service Once in 48 Years

Haverhill, Jan. 25.—Andrew E. Fay has probably been to church more times than any living person in Haverhill. After forty-eight years of continual service as sexton of St. James' Church he has retired. Fay's record is a remarkable one for faithfulness to duty.

Only once since 1873 did Fay miss a service at the church on Sundays or holidays. He was appointed as sexton in that year.

Despite his seventy-five years Fay is still active and able to chop wood. He was born in Ireland. He came to this country with his parents when a child and lived the earlier part of his life in Lowell, where he was educated.

DORCHESTER BOARD OF TRADE BANQUET FEB. 8

The Dorchester Board of Trade has completed arrangements for its annual banquet, to be held at the Hotel Westminster, Tuesday evening, February 8. Governor Cox has accepted an invitation to be present, as have also Mayor Peters and James G. Higgins, known in K. of C. circles as the "King of Story Tellers."

NEW YORK PLOT TO GET BOSTON RUM, CHARGED

McCarthy States He Will Supervise All Future New England Withdrawals

Charging a plot, centering in New York, is afoot, to withdraw whiskey from bonded warehouses in New England for beverage purposes, William J. McCarthy, Federal prohibition agent, announces that he will personally supervise all liquor releases in this territory in the future.

McCarthy charged that a conspiracy existed to smuggle forty barrels of whiskey, released from the Quincy Market warehouse, into New York. His agents seized the liquor in a farmhouse in Oxford, after the trucks eluded Federal agents in Worcester. The agents had accompanied the cargo from this city.

So Weak Couldn't Do Housework—She Gains 23 Pounds In 5 Weeks!

"My Wife Looks, Acts and Feels 30 Years Younger"—Says Husband

Took Famous Animal Gland Tablets

Mrs. Esther Pleasant, who for the past five years has been in a hopelessly run-down condition, is now an entirely remade woman, according to her husband, Mr. Timothy A. Pleasant, of 2 Marianna Street, Lynn, Massachusetts.

Her apparent rejuvenation, Mr. Pleasant says, is due entirely to Glandex Compound, a recent product of science, which is now being widely and successfully used by many thousands of people in the treatment of general run-down conditions, anaemia, nervousness, or wherever new strength and energy are needed.

When interviewed Mr. Pleasant said:

"For the past five or six years my wife was so run-down that several times I surely thought I was going to lose her. She lost over thirty pounds, and was so weak and frail that an hour's housework would often leave her completely exhausted for the rest of the day.

"She was tired out all the time and didn't have one bit of ambition. When she would sit down she would hate to get up, and was so nervous and fidgety that the least little thing would irritate her. But tired as she was she couldn't get to sleep nights. Some nights she would toss and turn for hours before she could get to sleep. Every so often she would have a splitting headache and it seemed that she didn't eat enough to keep a bird alive.

"Today you would never know she was the same woman. Just as soon as she started taking Glandex Compound, she began to improve. Now she is always hungry and can eat anything. Her weight has increased 23 pounds, and she is off to sleep as soon as her head touches the pillow. She hasn't the least trace of her former nervousness, and no matter how hard she works it doesn't bother her a bit. Upon my word, she looks and acts and feels thirty years younger. Glandex Compound was a godsend to her and we are both glad of this opportunity of recommending it to others."

Astonishing Results Everywhere

So effective has Glandex Compound been in the treatment of run-down conditions that thousands are turning to it for health and strength wherever it has been introduced. People who for years suffered from nervous weaknesses and general ill health are said to have experienced a remarkable return to youthful health and strength. Even after the first few days' treatment many say that they can feel themselves getting years younger.

Weak, worn-out women claim that they have found Glandex Compound especially valuable as a flesh-builder. Many have noticed improvement in a remarkably short space of time. They say that Glandex Compound not only brings back lost weight, but puts the natural rosy color into pale, sallow cheeks, and gives them a healthy enjoyment in life which they had believed lost.

Healthy Glands Mean Healthy People

The reason is very simple. Science has recently discovered that our ductless glands located in various parts of our bodies play a most important part in keeping us strong, young, and healthy by supplying a vital substance which is needed in converting our food into bone and tissue and in building up the billions of cells in our muscles and nerves. Thus, when our glands become run-down, as they frequently do through illness, overwork or excesses, our bodies are very apt to become run-down also. This is because the glands in their weakened condition are not able to furnish the strength-building secretions which the body needs.

It is obvious, therefore, that in order to have strong, healthy bodies we must build up strong, healthy glands.

For some time it was thought that the only way to do this was through an operation as in the case of the famous monkey gland experiments which recently startled the world, but now we are told this is being accomplished by feeding our worn out glands with the extracts taken from ductless glands of healthy sheep and cattle in tablet form, much the same as we take pepsin from animals and use it for indigestion. In addition to containing these extracts, Glandex Compound also contains iron peptonate and other valuable ingredients, all of which have been prescribed for years as health builders by physicians. It is because of this combination of ingredients that Mrs. Pleasant and thousands of others are securing such startling results from Glandex Compound.

You Risk Nothing

To try Glandex Compound it is not necessary to risk a single penny. Simply go to your druggist and ask for it. Try it for ten days and if at the end of that time you do not feel that your health, strength and endurance have been increased; if your mirror does not reflect a marked improvement in your appearance; if you do not feel better in every way, your druggist will refund your money, without question.

But act at once, for druggists say that due to the great demand for Glandex Compound their supplies of it frequently run out before more can be obtained. And remember, if Glandex Compound fails to bring results your money back. Try it today.

"The Richest Cake I Ever Tasted—and Made Without Butter"

Why many cooks can't make a light cake rich or a rich cake light

Solving a problem that worries every housewife

MANY housewives still think that butter is needed for making rich cakes or pastries. This is an old-fashioned idea that is rapidly being abandoned by modern cooks.

People who have been using butter, lard, or ordinary fats in cooking, can hardly realize how rich and satisfying—yet light and thoroughly digestible their pies and pastries are when they use Mazola for shortening.

The old-fashioned way of cooking with butter or lard makes pie crusts "soggy," and cakes or biscuits "heavy."

The Modern Method of Cooking

Even beginners get wonderful results with Mazola. Pie crust always "comes out" brown and flaky—and so appetizing that you want to eat every bit of it. Cakes are rich and wholesome—bread and biscuits light and delicate tasting.

Mazola makes wonderful muffins, graham and bran gems, cookies and ginger bread; while those who are fond of French toast can enjoy a genuine treat in Mazola-made toast, served with orange marmalade, jelly, or any hot stewed fruit.

Many of the most famous cooks of the country now make their delicious French pastry with Mazola. It gives a wonderful brown crispness and richness to the pastry.

And Layer Cake, Pound Cake, Cream Puffs and Eclairs, made with Mazola, are the greatest delicacies you could ever imagine.

Much More Economical Than Butter or Lard

Not only is the food more delicious and digestible, but you use ¼ to ⅓ less Mazola than you need of either butter or lard. There is no water in Mazola to make the food soggy and heavy.

Mazola is an absolutely pure, highest grade vegetable fat, and requires no tedious "creaming in." It gives a maximum of results and appetite-satisfaction, with a minimum of labor and expense—no matter for what purpose it is used.

This is why leading clubs and hotels and hospitals, sanitariums and institutions use Mazola, and why it is the favorite cooking and salad oil on dining cars, lake boats, and many of the trans-Atlantic steamers.

Once you try Mazola you will prefer it to butter, lard, or any other old-fashioned shortening.

WALDORF IS A LEADER IN BOSTON

Local List Rules Higher All the Forenoon; Curb Market Active and Irregular

The Boston market was strong at the start and all the morning, but it was narrow as regards fluctuations and the scope of trading. Carson Hill and Waldorf were early features, each advancing a fraction on brisk demand. Coppers had an irregular aspect, but there was not much activity in this group. Packing issues eased off, while rails made gains, as a rule. Business in the latter was inconsequential, however. The bulk of the trading was in a few stocks. United Fruit began with a trifling gain, but soon increased it to more than a point. Atlas Tack and Edison advanced a point. Other forenoon gains were fractional and all declines were small.

Among issues to make little gains were Boston & Maine, New Haven, United Shoe, Ventura, Copper Range, Carson Hill, Waldorf and American Sugar preferred.

Small losses were sustained by North Butte, East Butte, Boston Elevated, Bigheart, Swift & Co. and Swift International.

CURB MOVEMENT MIXED.

The Boston Curb had an active opening and a mixed price movement. Early leaders were Arizona Tip Top, Boston & Montana and Eureka. Most of the transactions were in the few stocks that have engrossed interest of late on this exchange. Among issues to advance at once were Eureka, Randolph, Texana and Crystal. Among those to begin lower were Allied Mining, Arizona Silver, Arizona Tip Top and Mutual.

At the end of an hour Boston & Montana, which har opened unchanged, was up 4 cents at 60 cents, Eureka 2½ cents at 1 3-16, Crystal 1 cent at 37 cents and Eureka and South Holly 1-16 at 1⅜. Among declines were Arizona Tip Top 1 cent at 6½ cents, Arizona Silver 3 cents at 30 cents, Allied Mining 1 cent at 19 cents and Silver Reef 1 cent at 7 cents. Mutual had recovered its opening loss.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES

Gloucester, Mass., will receive bids until 3 p. m., January 26, for the purchase, at discount, of a temporary loan of $200,000, dated January 28, 1921, and payable November 16, 1921.

Nashua, N. H., will receive proposals until 10 a. m., January 28, for temporary loan of $60,000, dated January 31 and payable December 2, 1921.

The New England through rate case hearing was resumed yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington.

Wellesley, Mass., will receive proposals until noon, January 27, for a temporary loan of [illegible], dated January 24 and maturing November 24, 1921.

The war department will sell at auction in Boston on February 3 approximately 4,000,000 pounds of wool. Many grades will be in the lot.

Tomorrow, stock of the Trinity Copper Company on the Boston Stock Exchange list will be replaced by the shares of the Trinity Copper Corporation.

For 1920 the Pacific Mills reports net sales of $60,018,197 and net profits of $5,231,584 compared with net sales in 1919 of $44,702,215 and net profits of $5,682,921.

Mohawk production last year was 10,209,824 pounds of copper, a decrease of 2,187,405 pounds, or 20 per cent, as compared with 1919, and the smallest yearly output since 1912.

Ford Seeking Money Here?

According to a financial publication Boston bankers are being sounded to learn if they will be interested in raising a loan of $75,000,000 to the Ford Motor Co. It is said that Mr. Ford is "shopping around" over the country and trying to avoid the terms of the Eastern bankers. In New York it is believed that the loan may take the form of a fifteen-year 7½ note or bond issue. One New York statement reads: "Negotiations between Ford and New York bankers are understood to be near completion, and announcement of details is expected this week."

MARKET QUIET DURING THE ADVANCE

Gains Rule Small in New York; Steel, Equipment and Shipping Shares Up

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor

Stocks ruled strong in New York at noon, although below the forenoon highest. Gains were small on the average and the market was quiet on the advance. In the second hour a number of issues reacted. This was due to profit taking in most instances. Steel, equipment and shipping shares were constituted the strongest groups. Rails and oils were irregular.

Among strongest stocks were Crucible, General Asphalt, Mexican Petroleum, Reading, International Paper, International Corporation and Baldwin. They were up from one to more than three points at their highest. American Sumatra, Stromberg and Royal Dutch were off about a point. First hour transactions approximated 180,000 shares, but the market was dull in the second hour.

Call money opened at 7 per cent. Sterling featured the foreign exchange market, demand opening at $3.80½. This is the highest it has attained since July 22 last.

IRREGULAR AT START.

At the opening prices moved irregularly, but the tendency was upward and within a few minutes gains were shown by a large majority of stocks. The market was strong before the end of an hour. Covering of shorts was resumed and it was again claimed that important interests are accumulating stocks on declines. Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt were particularly active, the former receding and rallying and the latter being up all the time. Crucible, Baldwin, International Corporation, Atlantic Gulf and International Paper were strong and also much in evidence. Reading was the rail leader in every sense. Sugars, coppers, leathers and equipments were quiet but firm. U. S. Rubber was the only issue of its class in which there was much trading. Demand was light in the stock loan market after the close of the exchange yesterday. Rates were 7 per cent. for industrials in general and 6 per cent. for rails. Crucible loaned at 1-32 premium and Sears-Roebuck flat to 1-32 premium.

BETTER TONE TO MARKET.

The market had a better tone this morning than for several days. The great success of the Belgian bond offering, the gain in the reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve system, the advance of foreign exchange and reports that the industrial situation is improving and that business as a whole is showing more vigor were contributors to cheerfulness. The investment demand for securities continues on a scale sufficient to indicate that people with money are viewing the future with confidence. The big failures predicted toward the end of the year by gloom propagandists have not befallen. In fact, year-end reports by corporations and great mercantile concerns show they are in much better position than was expected. It is now common belief that the worst is over and that from now on progress will be made, although it is likely to be slow.

Wall Street Briefs

For the final 1920 quarter the Virginia Iron Coal & Coke Co., reports net after charges and taxes of $331,108, against $1,073,701 for the preceding quarter.

It is understood in London that the National City Bank of New York has offered a loan to the city of Copenhagen. The interest is 8 per cent. and the price 95.

The Transue & Williams Steel Forging Corporation reports for 1920, net after Federal taxes of $670,734, against $735,988 in 1919.

For 1920 the Consolidated Gas Co., reports net after interest and taxes $1,808,000, against $4,112,440 in 1919.

The report of Hart Schaffner & Marx for the November 30 fiscal year, shows net after charges and Federal taxes of $2,013,055 equivalent after preferred dividends, to [illegible] a share of $15,000,000 common, against $2,200,218, or $13.11 a share in the preceding year.

The annual meeting of the American Sumatra Tobacco Co., will be held on February 16, in Atlanta, Ga. Stockholders of record on February 1, 1921, will be entitled to vote.

James A. Stillman was elected a director of the Consolidated Gas Co. to succeed Frank A. Vanderlip.

If the proposal of the Pressed Steel Car Co. directors to exchange preferred for common stock and pay a 20 per cent. stock dividend is approved, the corporation will have outstanding $30,000,000 common stock as compared with $12,500,000 7 per cent. preferred and a similar amount of common paying [illegible] per cent. per annum. Preferred holders will be given an equal amount of common, paying 8 per cent., plus the stock dividend, instead of a non-cumulative issue paying 7 per cent.

Republic Iron & Steel earned $20.25 a share for its common in the first three-quarters of last year, Lackawanna Steel $13.42, Bethlehem, estimated $25, United States Steel $12.60 and Midvale $5.13 a share.

Railroad Items

The Baltimore & Ohio has been given I. C. C. authority to issue $3,000,000 refunding and general mortgage bonds.

Interstate Commerce Commission approved of $3,825,000 to Southern Railway for new equipment. The road is required to finance $8,925,000.

American Railway Association directors have decided neither to reduce nor suspend the per diem of $1 paid on the surplus of foreign cars on the lines of member roads.

What about the Motor Industry?
Has it reached the saturation point?
Will motor stocks come back?
What is the present status of different companies?

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Jan. 25.—The cotton market opened easier at a decline of 12 to 30 points. The principal factor was the delivery of 45,000 bales of January contracts, the heaviest single day's delivery in many years. Other influences were adverse reports from Manchester, one cable stating eight importers of India were requesting Manchester merchants to suspend shipments on new business for six weeks. The South and Liverpool were on the selling side. The January position was very steady after the opening and later this was communicated to the whole list. At the end of twenty minutes the general market was 15 points net lower but well up from initial levels. Opening prices were: January, 16.35; March, 14.55; May, 14.70; July, 14.95; December, 15.16.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Wheat opened ⅛c to 1 lower, corn started unchanged to ⅛c higher and oats were unchanged to ⅛c higher. Mo lard was up 17c. Opening prices were: Wheat—March, 1.70 to 1.70¼; May, 1.60* to 1.60 Corn—May, 69 to 69⅞; July, 70¼ to 69⅞ Oats—May, 44⅝ to 44⅝; July, 44*.

LACK OF PUBLIC BUYING CAUSE OF DULLNESS

American International Yields Three Points and Mexican Petroleum Five

By BROADAN WALL.
Registered, U. S. Patent Office.

New York, Jan. 25.—The stock market closed heavy yesterday with prices shading sharply, under an active attack by professional traders. This movement was not wholly unexpected, as the dullness of the early session suggested a technical weakness of the speculative position. An excuse was found upon the announcement of a 50-cent cut in the price of Midwest Oil.

Just prior to this announcement Mexican Petroleum was selling around 158¾. Selling immediately centered in this issue and the price was driven below 153 at the close.

Without any co-relation American International became active and heavy, yielding three points, uncovering stop orders around 46. The shares of this company have been rather freely bulled and the speculative position was none too strong.

The public found little comfort in brokerage offices during the morning. Many of the houses were openly pessimistic, frankly suggesting a lower range of prices, while several predicted a substantial reaction before the Spring movement would develop. This chilled the public buying and was in a large measure responsible for the dullness of the early dealings. Out of town orders were in fair volume and on the buying side.

The announcement that the Pressed Steel Car proposed a common stock dividend and the retirement of the preferred was encouraging to investors who have watched the growing strength of the company's earning power. Sympathetically Pittsburgh Coal scored a rise, as it is expected that this company will retire its preferred shares, leaving the field free for the common stockholders some time in the near future.

Bethlehem Steel was heavy, reflecting an uneasy feeling that the affairs of the company may require some additional financing before the steel industry returns to a normal condition, or to put it another way, before another urgent demand arises for armor or ship plates.

Call money was firm with good demand at 7 per cent., with indications that the rates might be expected to stiffen over the end of the month.

Agricultural Chemical Bonds

The proceeds from the sale of the new issue of American Agricultural Chemical Company's $30,000,000 20-year 7½ per cent. first and refunding mortgage sinking fund bonds, due February 1, 1941, will be used to retire approximately $5,000,000 5 per cent. debentures, due February 1, 1924, and the balance for working capital.

Dividend Declarations

Manati Sugar Company declared quarterly 2½ per cent. common dividend, payable March 1 to stock of record February 15.

Pure Oil Company declared quarterly dividend of 50 cents in cash and 2 per cent. in stock, both payable March 1 to stock of record February 15.

United Cigar Stores declared second dividend of 1¼ per cent. on common, payable February 24 to stock of record February 10.

Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railroad Co. declared semi-annual dividends of 2½ per cent. on common and 3½ per cent. on preferred, both payable February 21 to stock of record February 1.

Alaska Packers' Association declared quarterly dividend of $2 a share and insurance fund interest income dividend of $2 a share, both payable February 10 to holders of record January 31.

SPEAKERS OF A.A.R.I.R. CONFER

Meet at American House Tonight; Many Meetings in Greater Boston

Several important meetings under auspices of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic are scheduled for tonight. One of the most important will be the conference of the members of the speakers' bureau in the American House at 8 o'clock. Additional important information for the guidance of speakers will be given by Willard De Lue, chairman of speakers.

Jamaica Plain Council, A. A. R. I. R., will meet in Needham Hall, Columbus avenue and Centre street, when James P. Hayes of Charlestown will speak.

SHARON MASS MEETING.

Tomorrow night there will be a monster mass meeting in Sharon, where what promises to be a record audience will be addressed by Rev. Dr. Albert W. Allen of Brooklyn, N. Y., an Episcopalian minister, who is a direct descendant of the family of Ethan Allen, and Professor Daniel Foley of Boston. Several other speakers will be heard.

Father McGlow Council of Chelsea will hold a mass meeting in St. Rose's Hall Wednesday night. The speakers will be Mayor Dennis Morgan of Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland, and John J. Foley, state vice-president of the A. A. R. I. R., and others. There will be a musical entertainment.

TO PROTEST DEPORTATION.

The Carlow Men's Association will hold their regular meeting Thursday evening. At all these meetings and at others to be held resolutions will be presented condemning the proposed deportation of Lord Mayor Donal O'Callaghan of Cork, and men and women will pledge themselves to employ every legitimate means in their power as Americans to prevent the proposed deportation of O'Callaghan.

Deer Island Cook May Get Her Pension

Miss Hulda Heitman, boss bean baker of New England, who asserted that her resignation as cook at Deer Island was forced by Master Harlow, may get her pension after all.

Captain David J. Brickley interested himself in her case on learning that she had served as cook at the island for twenty-nine years and two months and would have been entitled to a pension with ten additional months' service.

In an order unanimously passed by the City Council he has called upon Institutions Commissioner Thomas C. O'Brien to state all the circumstances of her resignation and whether it is true that, coming at this time, it has prevented her from retiring on a pension.

The order also inquires into the circumstances of the resignation of Miss Marion Hix, Deer Island matron, who, it is said, has served equally as long.

"L" TO RUN TWO-CAR TRAINS ON SUNDAY

The Boston Elevated will inaugurate a two-car system for Sunday traffic in the Cambridge subway and on the main line beginning next Sunday, according to announcement made today by General Manager Edward Dana. He explained that the change will be made in order to reduce the working hours of several hundred trainmen from fifty-four to forty-eight per week, as guaranteed by union agreement.

EX-GOV. COX IN PARTY CONTROL CONFERENCE

Washington, Jan. 25.—Former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio came to Washington for a series of conferences with Democratic leaders which will determine whether he is to retain control of the party organization peacefully or as the result of a fight. His first words were "no surrender."

He declined to talk for publication, but in the course of the conferences he let it be known that there was going to be no reorganization of the Democratic party. If necessary, he stands ready personally to assume all the burden of the $140,000 deficit caused by his campaign for the presidency.

Governor Cox went to the Shoreham Hotel where he met Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, and other Administration leaders. He talked at length with Secretary Tumulty, but neither could give any information on the possibility of a visit to the White House while the former Governor is here.

Later Mr. Cox was in conference with his political lieutenants at the law offices of the former Judge Timothy T. Ansberry, at whose home he and Mrs. Cox are guests. Before the week is over the former Governor expects to go over all the plans for the future of the Democratic party organization with National Chairman George White.

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

The [illegible] team, although losing 3 to 2 to the B. A. A., put up a speedy brand of play against the Unicorns and disclosed [illegible] except many able performers in McFarland and Spriggins. They, however, make no such claims as were advanced in the information sent out by the Arena and were surprised to learn they had been advertised as leading the Montreal City League, when in reality they are well down in the league standing.

The Shoe Trades will send a somewhat crippled team against the Canadians. [illegible] Red Synott is definitely out of the game for some time and [illegible] Conley was reported as being a bit off physically and did not appear at the most recent practice session of the team. In Red's place Eddie Baker is due to perform and should Conley prove unable to start the contest Louis Reycroft or Traff Hicks will fill the post. Jerry Geran, who has held the other wing position, has been relegated to the substitute list and Eddie Enright or Jim Healy are likely to be found at right wing.

A brilliant individual effort by Frankie Downing after two minutes of play in the final period of the B. A. A.-Shamrocks game gave the Unicorns a 3 to 2 victory over the Canadian team.

Six-Man Hockey in Harvard-Princeton Game

Reports about the Arena have it that six-man hockey will prevail when Harvard meets Princeton on Saturday night.

Harvard has been playing a seven man team all season and expected to do so in its game with its Big Three opponents, but when the subject was broached to Princeton, the latter's representatives are said to have replied:

In its most recent practice, however, the Crimson failed to accommodate its lineup to the six man style and it is possible the Tigers may give in to Harvard's idea before the game gets under way.

ATTEND SALEM BOUTS

More than 300 women watched Benny Valgar of New York pin defeat on Dick Stosh of Cleveland in eight rounds at the Nautilus Club. Stosh subbed for Chip Davis of Buffalo, who had failed to put in appearance. The battle was scheduled for ten rounds but at the conclusion of the eighth the Clevelander [illegible] that enough was plenty and declined to come out for the next frame. Mack Murphy of Quincy stopped Johnny Brown of Newport [illegible] in the fourth round of the semi-final.

ROXBURY LATIN DOWNS BOSTON LATIN, 4 TO 2

Harvard Fencer Out

Harvard will be without Jack Barss, one of its best fencers, when the season opens Saturday against Tech. He has a slight attack of the influenza.

Herman Home, Out for Lynch Bout

Herman says he was offered several matches if he would consent to remain in England, but that he preferred to return here to trail his conqueror.

FRANKIE BRITT WINS FROM GEORGE BROWN

Frankie Young Britt of New Bedford decisively defeated George Brown of New York in the feature bout of the Carver A. C. show at Grand Opera House. Brown had the better punch and all sorts of willingness and ambition, but Britt's ring generalship proved too much for him.

Californian Confident He Can Defeat Gardner in Bout at Grand Thursday

Tony Ajax, who likes to back himself with his own money, is willing and ready to cover all that the friends of Pinky Gardner may offer for their match at the Grand Opera House Thursday night. Tony, however, is asking even money while the Gardner adherents are sticking out for ten to eight.

With both wrestlers at their top form and in the best of shape for a grueling battle the fans are about equally divided as to which will win, in spite of the odds. The matter of weight appears to be a factor that will be strongly considered and many will wait to see whether Ajax has made the weight, as he says, without difficulty before placing their bets.

The meeting between Tommy Record and Billy Goodwin has certainly got the fans of Somerville worked up and while Goodwin is a slight favorite because of his previous win, Tommy's followers are coming through in great shape.

Herrera Knocks Out Corbett

This is the eighteenth of a series of [illegible] by [illegible] ties on pugilism who were famous in the [illegible]. Others will follow.

This tale is of the night that Aurelio Herrera, the Mexican battler, took Young Corbett into camp after a short, [illegible] the Mexican allowed Corbett to hit him for four rounds, waiting a chance with his famous right hook. It came in the fifth and "Young" Corbett hit the dust and took the full toll. The fight was staged at the Pacific A. C., Los Angeles, Cal., January [illegible], 1906.

By C. E. Van Loan

Mexican Drops Corbett

Quick as a flash Herrera [illegible] right to [illegible] Corbett dropped on one [illegible] laughing in an attempt to make Herrera believe he was not hurt [illegible] knees were bending under him [illegible]

Herrera sprang upon him [illegible] missed a left [illegible] turned he caught him with one [illegible] right hook which [illegible] to the floor. This time Corbett [illegible] the count [illegible] slowly, the blood flowing from [illegible]. He was plainly [illegible] but out.

Corbett Takes Count

Planting his shoulders against the ropes he waited [illegible] which should end the fight. Herrera [illegible] seeing that he was [illegible] lunged forward with another right hook and Corbett [illegible] his knees doubled under him.

RETURNING, he untied the painter of his stolen boat and cast it loose upon the outgoing tide; then he took off his shoes, and dropped them overboard. After that he crouched in the black shadows of the port of the cabin and waited.

Another ten minutes passed, and then a rowboat softly bumped the Myra's side, and Slim Jackson stepped upon the deck. At once the boat pushed off and slipped back toward the shore. Slim went down the companionway into the cabin, called for the steward, and getting no answer, threw off his raincoat and vanished into the galley, reappearing a moment later with a half bottle of champagne. He drew the cork, seated himself at the cabin table, and drank leisurely.

Presently another boat bumped the yacht's side, discharged a passenger, and made back for the shore. The instant Kenneth went down the companionway, Black Jerry threw his derby hat far out into the water, and slipped off his raincoat and tossed it likewise over into the tide, which might carry it a dozen miles—perhaps a hundred—from where the Myra lay at anchor. He now stood in shirt and belted trousers. While he had waited he had drawn on a pair of delicately thin rubber gloves such as surgeons wear; they had his finger prints down at police headquarters, and he wished to leave behind no slightest proof that he had been on board that night.

"Hello, Kenneth," he heard Slim drawl as Kenneth threw off his raincoat. "That was a queer stunt, Jennie's giving herself up today."

"Do you think it may get us in bad? I suppose you wanted a business talk—that's why you sent that telegram to me?"

"What are you talking about?" exclaimed Kenneth. "I never sent any telegram to you. I'm here because of one you sent me."

"One I sent you!" Slim sprang to his feet. "I never sent you one—you never sent me one—Kenneth, there's something crooked here!"

"There sure is," agreed Jerry's heavy voice as he stepped through the cabin doorway.

Jerry's emotions did not allow him to answer at once. When he spoke, he spoke with husky savageness. "The great idea is that us three have something to talk over. And first thing, you two guys are to sit down at that table."

The two men did not at once comply. "Sit down!" growled Jerry, advancing toward them. At his glowering approach, Slim Jackson whipped from somewhere within his perfect evening dress a small automatic. But before he could level it, Black Jerry had sprung, for Jerry had foreseen the possibility of this action. Jerry's great hand clutched Slim's wrist, there was an instant's struggle, then the automatic was Jerry's, and as he sent Slim spinning across the cabin he turned on Kenneth.

"So—you were expecting trouble," Jerry commented. "Sit down, both of you!"

"Now, we're going to have a little talk, us three—quiet; out here no one can hear or disturb us. And what we're going to talk about is this: you two got my Jennie into this mess—it's up to you to get her out clean."

"You lie! You haven't done just what my sweet son-in-law has done, but you're guilty as hell!" He shifted his glistening eyes back to Kenneth. "You there—you get some of this ship's fancy writing-paper from that rack over there, and bring ink and a pen."

Kenneth hesitated. But Jerry's gaze was compelling. Kenneth obeyed and came back to his chair with pen, ink, and thick paper embossed with the emblem of the Manhattan Yacht Club and with the Myra's name.

"Now, write," Jerry commanded. "I'm going to tell you what to say, but it's up to you to put it in good language. You write that the two of you realize that the police are closing in on you—"

Kenneth, who had started to write, looked up. "Police closing in on us? What for?"

"For that Myrtle Freeman disappearance." Kenneth's blanched lips twitched at this. "You see," Jerry explained grimly, "Doris Dorraine has spilled everything she knows about you two, and I've handed it on to a copper friend of mine. You may not understand that sentence about the coppers closing in on you—but the coppers will understand. So you get busy with your pen."

Black Jerry continued with pauses to permit the writing. "You put that down about you two realizing that the police are closing in on you . . . you say that you know you have no chance and you realize what is before you . . . that you can't stand this thing any longer . . . but that before you do what you intend to do . . ."

This time it was Slim who interrupted. "What we intend to do! What's that?"

"You let him write ahead!" Jerry ordered fiercely.

"I'll not do it!" cried Kenneth, flinging down his pen. "I get your idea! This is a confession you are forcing out of us—a confession you'll take charge of!"

"You bet I'll take charge of it! And you'll write just what I say!"

One of the automatics came up and directed itself straight into Kenneth's eyes. His eyes wavered, turned for aid to Slim Jackson, and caught a swift, meaning look. Jerry also caught that look and knew what it conveyed; that it would be easy enough for them to repudiate the confession as a document forced out of them by threats, even if Jerry finally did obtain possession of it—that their word would count as everything against the discredited Black Jerry Malone.

Kenneth Picked Up Pen

Kenneth picked up his pen. "What else is there to it?"

"You write this: 'Under these conditions, we want at least to clear all innocent parties. . . . I, Kenneth Harrison, declare that I have lied about my wife . . . That I stole money from the Shipman firm, that I was about to be found out, that I begged my wife to forge that check to save me. . . . She forged it only because I asked her to, in order to save me, and she never got a penny of the money. . . . I am really the only guilty person. . . . My father knows these to be the facts, and I ask him to testify to them.' That's all you need to say, Harrison. Now, just sign your name on the dotted line."

"Your turn, Slim. There won't be much for you to write, as there will be room on the same sheet of paper. Get ready."

"You write that you always were a crook even long ago when you used to work in Jerry Malone's joint. . . . Write that you learned that Jennie Malone was clever with her pen, and that you put her up to forging, you managing everything except the signing of the checks. Write that that Morrison check, for which she was arrested five or six years ago, was the same as the others—that you, besides putting her up to it, did all the crooked work except signing the check. . . . Write that you asked her to take all the blame in court so's you'd be kept out of it, and write that she done just what you asked. . . . That's all for you, Slim Jackson, except signing on the dotted line."

Keeping the pair covered with his automatic, Black Jerry, with his rubber-gloved hand, picked up the confession and read it carefully. Then he pushed it back to Kenneth.

"Address an envelope to the District Attorney of New York County," he ordered, "and write on it, 'Immediate.'" Kenneth complied. "Now, fold that paper, put it in the envelope, seal it, and put it in the centre of this table."

"Now that you've got it, Jerry," said Slim, trying to speak nonchalantly, "what's your next pleasant little order?"

"But what's the idea?" Slim protested. "Where do we go from here?"

Slim Passes Out

They went backward until their shoulders were against the mahogany paneling. Jerry faced them, Slim's automatic in one hand, Kenneth's automatic thrust into the front of his trousers. More poignantly than ever before he thought of Jennie, of the sorry end of his dreams and long planning for her and in his sub-conscious mind were also those things of which Doris Dorraine had told him — things which had wrecked other lives. All that men had called primitive, brutal, unmoral, surged up in him to a climax of fury—all that was remorseless.

"Slim Jackson," he gritted, "you've always been a liar and a crook and every damned rotten thing there is. If it hadn't been for you, my Jennie would have made good! You deserve the worst the State can give you, but you're too smooth ever to get caught. But, Slim, you're not so clever that I didn't guess what was passing in your head. Don't you suppose I understand that if you get away now, that confession won't help Jennie a damn? So you're not going to get away! I'm going to save Jennie! I'm going to do what the State ought—"

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

First, a boy longs for a real dog, then for a real horse, then for a real automobile, and then for a real girl. What he usually gets is a cotton-flannel poodle, a hobby horse, a red pushmobile, and a painted "baby doll."

Flirtations come in many varieties, simple and complex, cheap and expensive, abbreviated and full length, with or without the "frills"—but they are all cut of the same old flimsy cloth.

Never despair. Thoughts are things; and if you keep on expecting it long enough, your husband (or wife) will live down to your wildest suspicions.

Dreams go by contraries—but love usually comes that way.

Love so seldom lives long enough to grow up that he has never been pictured as anything but a baby with a quiver of toy arrows.

Tests for a lover: Watching (and listening) to him pack and strap a trunk, watching him eat spaghetti, "hearing" him play golf, hearing him break an engagement over the telephone, meeting him when he is wearing his fishing clothes, a low, soft collar and a two-days' beard; trying to love the aroma of his pipe. If your love survives all these, a little thing like marriage will never strain it.

Stingiest Person

One dollar will be paid for every letter printed.

Last Summer, while spending a vacation at a resort near Augusta, Me., a friend of mine, about to go fishing, asked the owner of the house if there were any old tin cans about to hold bait. The owner said that he would get one for him, and brought out an old tomato can from the back yard, and charged him three cents for it. Going some?

Meaningly yours,
GEORGE RAPHAEL,

Preventing Fires

By Loretto C. Lynch

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

WHEN we read over the fire report at the end of the year even the most conservative among us is apt to be shocked. The loss of property, not to mention lives, is unbelievable. And the worst of it is that the majority of these fires originate in our homes from some preventable cause.

And right now, at the beginning of the new year, American housewives should pause for a moment and consider the possibilities of fire in the home. Take the kitchen. Each year more and more women are coming to use gas for cooking. No one should depend on the small gas cocks for safety at all times. Every woman should see to it that her range is fitted with either a lock or a main valve so that the supply of gas can be COMPLETELY shut off before going to bed at night or when leaving the house untenanted.

Tiny leaks often occur, and the gas collects in the oven. Unfortunately, this sometimes occurs at night. Then the housewife, without opening the door of the oven, attempts lighting one of the burners. The result is an explosion, a fire and loss of property or life—or both.

Another cause of fire is the wearing of a highly inflammable, loose gown, with the long, flowing kimona sleeves, by a woman in working about her stove. The semi-fitting washable gown, with short sleeves on the order of the bungalow apron is inexpensive, decidedly more becoming to most women and a thousand per cent. more safe.

The storing of matches in paper boxes or similar containers is likewise the cause of fires. Mice come to the best of homes uninvited. Mice gnawing through paper boxes containing matches and consequently setting fire to these matches has been the cause of more than one bad fire. Therefore store matches is in a tightly covered tin or glass container.

Another cause of fire is the overheating of fat or oil. When you are using deep fat for frying under no circumstances leave the room even for a few moments without taking the pan of fat entirely off the stove. A story is told of a woman who left her kitchen for a moment, as she thought it would be, to answer the telephone in a neighbor's apartment. She did not bother taking the pan of hot fat from the stove. Over the telephone she received word of the accidental death of her husband. She swooned. In the excitement which ensued the neglected fat caught fire. In less than half an hour from the time the woman left the kitchen the entire building was in flames.

It may not be clear to every woman that overheated fat flashes into flame inside the pan. Of course, before this happens there are warning clouds of black smoke, but if no one is present when the warning is sent out, disastrous results follow.

If there are smokers in the family be sure to provide ash receivers. Bad fires sometimes occur because a careless smoker flips glowing ashes into the scrap basket already full of paper.

THE news, the sound of this old gentleman's voice and the touch of his hand suddenly filled her with a strange yet sober happiness. Asa Waring, though he had not overheard, smiled at her, too, as in sympathy. His austere face was curiously illuminated, and she knew instinctively that in some way he shared her happiness. Mr. Bentley had come back. Yes, it was an augury. From childhood she had always admired Asa Waring, and now she felt a closer tie. . . .

She reached the pew, hesitated an instant, and slipped forward on her knees. Years had gone by since she had prayed, and even now she made no attempt to translate into words the intensity of her yearning—for what? Hodder's success, for one thing—and by success she meant that he might pursue an unfaltering course. True to her temperament, she did not look for the downfall of the forces opposed to him. She beheld him persecuted, yet unyielding, and was thus lifted to an exaltation that amazed. . . If he could do it, such a struggle must surely have an ultimate meaning! Thus she found herself, trembling, on the borderland of faith. . . .

She arose, bewildered, her pulses beating. And presently glancing about, she took in that the church was fuller than she ever remembered having seen it, and the palpitating suspense she felt seemed to pervade, as it were, the very silence. With startling abruptness, the silence was broken by the tones of the great organ that rolled and reverberated among the arches; distant voices took up the processional; the white choir filed past—first the treble voices of the boys, then the deeper notes of the men—turned and mounted the chancel steps, and then she saw Hodder. Her pew being among the first, he passed very near her. Did he know she would be there? The sternness of his profile told her nothing. He seemed at that moment removed, set apart, consecrated—this was the word that came to her, and yet she was keenly conscious of his presence.

"Lay hold on life!"

The service began—the well-remembered, beautiful appeal and prayers which she could still repeat, after a lapse of time, almost by heart; and their music and rhythm, the simple yet magnificent language in which they were clothed—her own language—awoke this morning a racial instinct strong in her—she had not known how strong. Or was it something in Hodder's voice that seemed to illumine the ancient words with with a new meaning? Raising her eyes to the chancel she studied his head, and found in it still another expression of that race, the history of which had been one of protest, of development of its own character and personality. Her mind went back to her first talk with him, in the garden, and she saw how her intuition had recognized in him then the spirit of a people striving to assert itself . . .

She stood with tightened lips, during the Apostles' Creed, listening to his voice as it rose, strong and unfaltering, above the murmur of the congregation. . . .

At last she saw him swiftly crossing the chancel, mounting the pulpit steps, and he towered above her, a dominant figure, his white surplice sharply outlined against the dark stone of the pillar. The hymn died away, the congregation sat down. There was a sound in the church, expectant, presaging, like the stirring of leaves at the first breath of wind, and then all was silent.

II.

He had preached for an hour—longer, perhaps. Alison could not have said how long. She had lost all sense of time.

No sooner had the text been spoken, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God," than she seemed to catch a fleeting glimpse of an hitherto unimagined Personality. Hundreds of times she had heard those words, and they had been as meaningless to her as to Nicodemus. But now—now something was brought home to her of the magnificent certainly with which they must first have been spoken, of the tone and bearing and authority of him who had uttered them. Was Christ like that? And could it be a Truth, after all, a truth only to be grasped by one who had experienced it?

It was in vain that man had tried to evade this, the supreme revelation of Jesus Christ, had sought to substitute ceremonies and sacrifices for spiritual rebirth. It was in vain that the Church herself had, from time to time, been inclined to compromise. St. Paul, once the strict Pharisee who had labored for the religion of works, himself had been reborn into the religion of the Spirit.

When a Girl Marries

Story of the Interesting Happenings in the Life of a Young Married Couple

By Ann Lisle

Whose Present Serial Has Won a Nation-Wide Success.

Copyright, 1921, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BRIGHT and early on the morning set for Val's departure from Dreamwold I awoke.

Resolutely I turned around and tried to go to sleep again. Lane had intimated that it would be merciful for me not to appear until they had left. I had intended to do that for Val's sake as well as his, but the queer wild kiss with which the big brown bear had said good-by made me inclined to avoid him on my own score.

Since my marriage to Jim no other man had kissed me. So even though I felt sure that Lane was simply a devoted friend who'd blundered a bit under great emotion, I was inclined to avoid him until he'd had time to forget.

There was so much bustle and stir of departure in the very air that I couldn't get to sleep again. As I lay alert, with an amazing feeling of being on the edge of an adventure and intrigue, I heard a great rumbling and purring of heavy machinery.

Flinging on a heavy robe, I crept to the window and peered down at the driveway where it rounds into a curve just under my window and leads to the porte cochere. There stod an enormous, padded ambulance.

Wondering whether Val had refused to drive in my car, or if in her state she must be kept in a reclining position, I went back to bed. Since I'd been plainly told I wasn't wanted on the scene of action, I couldn't play peeping Thomasine.

I poked my head under the covers and didn't get up even to run my bath until I heard the ambulance rumble down the driveway. Then I rose and made my preparations for the day. To my amazement it was only nine when at last I was ready to go downstairs.

Pat was breakfasting when I got down.

"Sleep through the rumpus?" he asked.

I yawned and smiled, and so avoided a reply.

Phoebe Telephones

"Jeanie borrowed your car," he continued. "Phoebe telephoned from the city. Appears Carlotta was called back to town, as her governor's very sick. So the kiddie came in with Carlotta late last night, and she's due on the ten-ten. Jeanie's marketing first, and then off to meet Phoebe. Fine, I call it, the way you and Jeanie are regular sisters now. Be borrowing each other's hats before long, I expect."

"I'm happier than I can tell you to have Jeanie feel so close to me," I said, adding with more emphasis than I realized, "Staying down today, Pat?"

"No, I'm skipping out in a taxi I've just ordered to take me to the station. I'll call Jim as soon as I'm after getting into the big town, never doubt that, Alanna. And we'll be coming down on the same train tonight."

I smiled my appreciation and punctuated it by seeing Pat off. Then I went back to my breakfast. All in a minute, Bertha came in and stationed herself behind one of the empty chairs.

"I took the liberty of sending the waitress off to make up the rooms," she said. "I wanted so much to have a word with you, Mrs. Harrison. I thought I'd like to tell you how happy we are—me and Lyons. And how we do nothing but talk about how we owe it all to you. And if ever you need us"—

The doorbell rang just then and Bertha had to rush to answer it. I smiled to myself. How odd it was that in the past few days three persons had told me that if ever I needed any one I could count on them, Lyons, Lane and now Lyons' wife. That suggested something else and I wrinkled my brow in vexation trying to remember what was dancing tantalizingly on the edges of my mind. What was it? What could it be that I wanted to remember and yet couldn't capture?

One of the Versions

Phoebe's voice brought me back. I hurried into the living room to greet the little sister. After hugging and kissing me, she burst out:

"Doesn't homecoming agree with Jeanie? Doesn't she look great! Don't you think she's the beautifulest thing you ever saw? I wonder what a happy marriage would do to me?"

"Let's not talk about me. I've got to hear all about the accident. Poor Shelly! Neal says the town's full of it. Tell me everything."

"Tell us what you've heard first, dear," replied Virginia smoothly. "Then we won't be in danger of boring you with the parts of the sad little tale you already know."

"Oh, I heard that he was killed driving Mrs. Cosby to spend the day with you. I spoke to Aunt Mollie last night and she told me how happily they started off from her house at the crack of day — about 8 in the morning — and three hours later the poor boy was gone."

I avoided Virginia's eyes. Aunt Mollie's story was so patently made up to protect Val. When I took my morning stroll that fatal morning and stumbled into the tragedy, it was not yet 9 o'clock. We were two hours from the city and Aunt Mollie an hour on the other side. In manufacturing her story of kindly purpose, it seemed to me Aunt Mollie had forgotten one important factor. Lacy and Dana Willoughby must know the truth. Surely Val had started from home and not from Aunt Mollie's cottage. Would the little song sparrows help to protect Val?

Self-Sacrificing

"I was engaged, you know."

"Yes?"

"Well, she made me give up smoking, card-playing, Sunday golf, bright ties, musical comedies and most of my friends, so that"——

"Yes?"

"I got into such a habit of giving things up that at last I gave up something on my own account."

"Which was?"

"The girl."

Rules Governing Movie Player Identity Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Moving Picture Players' Identification Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to their readers who submit the largest percentage of correct identifications to the 120 pictures to be published in these two newspapers.

All employes of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and their families, and all moving picture players and persons connected with the moving picture industry are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of 120 pictures of favorite moving picture players, to be printed two each day, in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture Sunday, December 19, 1920.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which shall be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this Test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE identification to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each and every identification must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser or on a page of some book form by itself, accompanied either by the picture furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each identification blank.

In case there are no complete sets of correct identifications, awards will be given to the persons submitting the largest percentage of correct identifications.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy in spelling, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way, the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their identifications before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your identifications from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first identifications sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

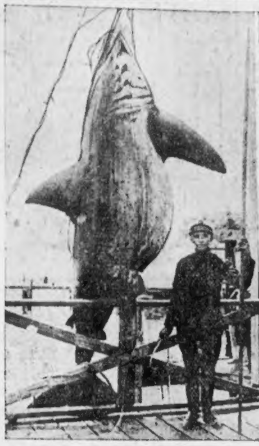
All identifications must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Test Headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., either by mail or in person within specified time limit, which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing identifications must be legibly addressed as follows: "Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. Box 239," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all identifications will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the package be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes to the postoffice as first class matter. The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of identifications on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered, as far as possible, through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such reply, or they may phone Main 5180, or call in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any change in, or addition to, these conditions that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the test, and the decision of the Boston American Movie Test Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions now made or to be made.



SOME OCARINA—Has extra' mouthpiece, too. What is an ocarina? You've seen 'em but this isn't really one. This is a 14-foot shark, a five and one-half foot man and the w. k. harpoon which did the trick at Miami recently. (Int.)

NO BARGAIN SALES HERE—This shows the "Tremont street" of Simla, India. No one is in a hurry, yet undoubtedly there are great art treasures hidden in the jumble of merchandise. (c) U. & U.

CELESTE! THE SALTS!—Horrors! Can you imagine, the brazen hussy appearing in public with naked ears? What will not women dare? Looks right into the camera's eye, too. (c) U. & U.

SPRING IS HERE—Chicago is having the most remarkable Winter in the history of that city. Recently a woman found a robin in her yard. The kids have stowed away their skates and brought forth the "glassies," "crockies," "chinies" and other specimens of the w. k. marble game and the calendar is now absolutely moved ahead three months. Tough on the coal profiteers. (c) U. &U.

YOU'LL DO, ANITA—Miss Anita Booth, Virginia beauty, is one of the twenty-five girls to which the fame and fortune contest of a movie concern has narrowed. There were 100,000 entries. (c) P. I. B.

GRAVEYARD FOR DOGS AND CATS—This novel burying ground is located at Dedham and many costly monuments have been erected there by owners of late-lamented pets. Here "Dear Little Dottie," a belligerent-looking bulldog, and Betsy, a comfortable Persian feline, sleep side by side without any danger of a family quarrel starting on a moment's notice. (c) U.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

FACE DISFIGURED CUTICURA HEALS

Itching and Burning Severe. Rest Terribly Upset.

"My trouble commenced on the side of my face in little blisters with a red surface. It gradually spread and the itching and burning were very severe. My face was disfigured for a while and my rest was terribly upset from the misery.

"I tried different remedies but got no help until I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using them for a month I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. M. Boutell, Sterling, Mass., June 14, 1920.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

Rub pain from back with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

"LOVE BIRDS" LIVELY AT SHUBERT

Marion Bent, brisk and tuneful music, unusual and dashing dances, extravagant and colorful costumes and settings, dialogue peppered with Pat Rooneyisms, and Pat Rooney, himself, that's "Love Birds," Max Wilner and Sidney Romberg's musical comedy that opened at the Shubert Theatre last night.

It is a lively piece that starts off with a bang and is kept moving at a rapid pace by a tireless set of principals and quite the best looking chorus that has been seen on the Boston stage in some time.

Whenever the plot threatens to crop out and interfere with the fun-making, set after set of dancers come out, or some of the principals, who have voices far better than is usually found in musical comedies, sing snatches of Sidney Romberg's score.

Starting in the lingerie department of a fashionable shop, the plot carries the principals, shoppers, floor-walker, salesgirls and errand boy to a Persian harem in search of a card bearing the recipe for Bronson Charteris' hair tonic.

There are two love affairs involved as well, but the plot is frequently forgotten by audience and players alike. Every now and then it is remembered in time to bring back members of the cast who have left the stage for a rest, a well deserved rest.

Pat Rooney plays a variety of roles, the errand boy in the shop, a Greenwich Village poet, a dancer, an artist, and just Pat Rooney. He's amazingly active and apparently unexhaustible. The audience last night kept him on until it seemed as if he must drop, but he didn't even seem to feel it. His clogging, his "Rosie O'Grady" dance, and all his old tricks are just as fresh and as entertaining as if they were new, and just as popular. Rooney is one of the few comedians we have today that one can see endlessly and thoroughly enjoy.

Marion Bent is both amusing and attractive as Mamie O'Grady, shop girl who follows Pat to Persia. Her lively mannerisms and her enjoyment of the entire play give an impetus to her work that is irresistible. As Elizabeth Murray, in the role of Jennie O'Hara, says, "Her wink would free Ireland!" Elizabeth Murray has splendid lines as the saleswoman and gets the most out of her many opportunities for comedy work.

Elizabeth Hines, as Allene Charteris, is very attractive and graceful, while Harry Mayo and Richard Bold are splendid as Emir Duckim and Arthur Harwood, respectively. Special mention should go to the dancing teams, Emilie Lea and Tom Diggle, and Evelyn Cavanaugh and Barrett Greenwood. The nimbleness and eccentricity of the first pair and the grace and dash of the latter make a splendid combination. "Love Birds" is a lively piece that should play to crowded houses for some time to come.

Plays That Remain

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Booth Tarkington's "Clearance" began its fourth week at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening. This comedy has laugh-provoking merits in the individual methods of its renowned author, who does not trouble himself so much about a plot as he does about characterization and certain drolleries founded upon the foibles of personages placed in certain conditions.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Leo Ditrichstein begins his last fortnight in "The Purple Mask," a drama of mystery and thrills, at the Plymouth Theatre.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Eddie Cantor and "The Midnight Rounders" began their fifth big week at the Majestic Theatre last night. This ravishing revue, in which Mr. Cantor is so ably assisted by Nan Halperin, Lew Hearn, Harry Kelley, Helen Bolton and a company of 150 persons, has not only broken all previous records for Boston theatre going, but also for the few remaining weeks of its engagement.

HOOVER PERFORMANCE OF "WAY DOWN EAST"

D. W. Griffith, America's foremost motion picture producer, will turn over the gross receipts of his 14 "Way Down East" companies, now playing the United States and Canada, to the Hoover Fund for the benefit of the starving foreign children, during the current week.

The special performance in Boston, which will turn over the gross receipts here, will be given next Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Tremont Temple.

In the absence of John White Hallowell, chairman of the local Hoover committee, the direction of this special performance of Mr. Griffith's "Way Down East" will be under the council of Mr. Hobbs, acting in Mr. Hallowell's place.

This is an unusual opportunity for the people of Boston to help the most humane cause in the world today—that of the starving children of Europe and foreign countries—innocent victims of the late world conflict, and, at the same time view the epic New England story of Humanity.

Tickets will go on sale today and will be obtainable from every available source enlisted by the local Hoover committee, at all the hotels of the city and the Tremont Temple box office.

1,000 ATTEND BALL OF WEB PRESSMEN

Many State and city officials, together with prominent officers of local union organizations, were guests of the Boston Newspaper Web Pressmen's Union No. 3 at their annual ball, held in Paul Revere Hall, Mechanics Building, which was attended by about 1,000 friends of the organization.

The affair was one of the most successful ever held by the pressmen. A feature was the excellent concert which preceded the dancing, and at which Miss Elsie Lornegan was soloist.

The reception committee was headed by J. Badaracco, and included T. E. Etsordt, J. McNamara, J. T. Shea, D. Coughlin, C. J. Harvey and J. J. O'Hare. James Campana was floor marshal and William E. Higham floor director. The chief of aids was Paul Donnelly.

Coming Events

COLONIAL THEATRE—It is the pleasantest of announcements that George M. Cohan's musical production, "Mary," will return to Boston, the scene of its remarkable triumph of last Summer, for a short engagement at the Colonial beginning Monday, February 7.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—The long-promised local engagement of Nance O'Neil, in the production of "The Passion Flower," will begin at the Plymouth Theatre February 7. Miss O'Neil in this production was hailed in New York as one of the leading theatrical events of the decade.

ARLINGTON THEATRE—Beginning next Monday night the offering of the popular players at the Arlington Theatre will be "Daddy Long Legs."

ED WYNN IS BIG HIT OF 'CARNIVAL'

Ed Wynn returned to Boston yesterday for a two weeks' stay at the Colonial Theatre. His show, entitled the "Ed Wynn Carnival," as usual is nearly all Wynn.

There are a number of other principals, but the audience is never allowed to see for long just what they can do. The comedian, with his quips and puns, interrupts every few minutes, but from the applause indicated that is why people go to an Ed Wynn show. He has added many new jokes, which always brought the desired chuckles.

Lillian Fitzgerald, a mimic of unusual ability, played second to Mr. Wynn, and her cleverness was entertaining. The Mayakos, a trio of Japanese children, who played string instruments, proved their versatility by playing, singing and dancing, doing the last much better than the others.

Lillian Wagner proved herself equal to the role of prima donna in songs that called for considerable range, and Malcom G. Hicks sang "My Log-Fire Girl" while the show girls illustrated the visions that are supposed to arise from every well regulated hearth.

Beth Stede in the solo dance did the solo dancing gracefully, and Muriel Harrison and Earl Benham contributed three soft shoe numbers. Regal and Moore did some remarkable acrobatics. The musical hit of the show is "Good-Bye-Sunshine, Hello, Moon."

WILBUR THEATRE—William Rock's Revue at the Wilbur Theatre opened last night. James J. Corbett and Billy B. Van are in the cast, a lot of dancers, singers and other fun-makers. The piece will be reviewed tomorrow.

"TAILOR-MADE MAN" GIVEN AT ARLINGTON

A revival of "A Tailor-Made Man" is the attraction offered this week by the clever Arlington Theatre Players. William Shelley Sullivan played the role created by Grant Mitchell. Frances Anderson, who played opposite Mr. Sullivan, was seen to advantage and her popularity in Boston is increasing with each performance.

Olive Massey as Corinne Stanlaw shared honors with Miss Anderson. Edward Varney as Dr. Gustavus Sonntag, and the cast as a whole showed careful study and preparation for their various roles.

Edwin Brandon was excellent in his grasp of the character of the old tailor. James A. Bliss, as Bart's associate in the tailor shop, was effective.

The large audience was delighted with the general treatment of the play. Much of the charm of the original production was retained which, together with the pleasing staging of the piece, provided an admirable evening's entertainment. The play is wholesome, really humorous, and the kind that will appeal to nearly every type of theatregoer.

JOHN MITCHEL CLUB FESTIVAL IN ROXBURY

The annual festival of the John Mitchel Club of Roxbury will be held tonight in Hibernian Hall, No. 184 Dudley street. Members of Robert Emmet Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, are co-operating with the club. There will be a concert of Irish music under the direction of Professor Joseph O'Leary. Those in charge include: Mrs. Charles Forrester, Arthur Hand, Joseph O'Connell, Edward Ryan, Mrs. Mary Carter, Mary Coughlin, Mae Greenwood, Mrs. Mary McGrath, Delia Hynes, Kathleen Rafferty, Nellie Meaney, Helen Curley, Margaret Connolly, Barbara Conroy, Mrs. Eugene Curran, Mrs. Mary McCue, Margaret Ritchie, Jennie Reidy, Margaret Harrington, Christine Connolly, Mary Brennan, Bridie O'Connor and Mrs. Helen Quirke.

HARVARD MAGAZINE OFFICERS SELECTED

VETERANS MUST TELL OF WAR ENGAGEMENTS

It was announced at the Victory Medal bureau in the basement of the City Hall that upon all application for medals the engagements participated in must be mentioned on the blanks which are furnished. Otherwise men who have served may not get all the distinctions which are coming to them.

SECOND "ALL AMERICAN" SQUAD COMING HERE

Another "All-American" squad from Camp Dix, N. J., will arrive in Boston, January 29, to demonstrate what the army educational system has done. The squad will give exhibits before different clubs and organizations of this city, under the charge of Dr. J. P. Marshall.

WARFIELD IN REVIVAL OF "GRIMM"

David Warfield came back to Boston last evening for a two weeks' engagement at the Tremont Theatre in a revival of "The Return of Peter Grimm," and it is needless to state that the reception accorded was worthy a great actor and a great play.

The drama, a Belasco production which created a sensation a few years ago, is an attempt, in its effect, to probe beyond mortal life and bring back a departed spirit, and in this day of widespread interest in psychic theory and phenomena the return of this play is welcome to great numbers of people.

Peter Grimm is a kindly, old Dutch floriculturist, who, portrayed by Warfield, appears in the flesh in the first act, and as a spirit in the remainder of the play—unseen by the players on the stage, but visible to the audience, his influence directing the entire course of the drama.

Peter, in the opening act, makes a compact with his physician, Andrew McPherson, that the one who dies first will come back to earth and make his spiritual presence known. Peter dies, and his mission is to prevent the marriage of his niece, Kathrien, to a dissolute cousin, Frederick, a union which he encouraged and arranged while in life.

The unmasking before the eyes of the young woman of her unworthy suitor is accomplished in a manner which makes the story one of fascinating dramatic interest, playing powerfully upon the emotions and sympathies of the audience.

The difficult role of Peter Grimm is performed by Warfield with a sweetness and tender simplicity which reach the heart. He has lost none of his power and skill as an actor, and his supporting company is up to the high standard of past years. Especially superb are Joseph Brennan in the role of the old physician; Marie Bates, as Mrs. Bartholowmey, the clergyman's loquacious wife, and Miriam Doyle, as the sweet and girlish Kathrien.

Other Theatres

MODERN AND BEACON—An Irish legend, beautifully transplanted to every day American life, forms the bases of "All Souls' Eve," the new Mary Miles Minter production, which opened last evening at the Modern and Beacon Theatres. As a tale of mother love combined with strong gripping drama, it has a wide appeal. It tells of the old Irish legend that on "All Souls' Eve" the spirits of the dead may return to console and help those they left behind. Rollicking good-natured, clean fun; democratic college students and a snobbish heiress—all mixed in with clever incidents and an exciting football game—make "The Snob," starring Wanda Hawley, the other feature, a photoplay of exceptional entertainment values.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—In the cast of Mary Pickford's latest production, "The Love Light," which was shown at Gordon's Olympia yesterday is Edward N. Phillips, who was engaged by Miss Pickford and Frances Marion, her director, while the two were in New York on their return from Europe, as an Italian, but who later proved to be of good old Pennsylvania stock. He plays the role of Miss Pickford's younger brother in the story.

GORDON'S OLD SOUTH—"Harriet and the Piper," Anita Stewart's latest First National picture, which was screened at Gordon's Old South Theatre yesterday, is from Kathleen Norris' story of the same name. It has a Greenwich Village setting. Supporting Miss Stewart is an all-star cast.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA—The latest Goldwyn feature production, entitled "The Branding Iron," which was shown yesterday at Gordon's Scollay Square Olympia, is a vital story of human desires, with a powerful love theme, enacted by an all star cast. "The Branding Iron" is the story of John Carver, a young mountain girl, who falls in love with a rancher, Pierre Landis, a rough, primitive type of man, but exceedingly good looking, and marries him.

GORDON'S STRAND—Wesley Barry's debut on the screen as a star in "Dinty," which opened an engagement at Gordon's Uphams Corner Strand Theatre last night, is the crowing achievement of the freckled-faced youngster's meteoric career and a triumph for that wizard of the silent drama, Marshall Neilan, who created and produced this remarkable photoplay.

WALDRON'S CASINO—James E. Cooper's offering for the week at Waldron's Casino is styled "Victory Belles," the "Rainbow Division of Burlesque Musical Comedy of Girls," but there is by far more to this incomparable royal offering than is contained in the title. Mr. Cooper knows, perhaps, better than any one else in his field of endeavor, what is needed to entertain his patrons on a lavish scale. His offering "Victory Belles" gives a sure indication of the success he has achieved in this particular direction. The book is from the prolific pen of William K. Wells, who also is responsible for the lyrics. The title of the show is "Girls 'n Everything" and consists of two acts, a prologue and ten scenes.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM—Salisbury Field's sparkling comedy of conjugal confusements, "Wedding Bells," was presented yesterday at the Malden Auditorium by the Temple Stock Company. The company members caught well the lively spirit of the comedy and gave the lines true significance. It is comedy founded upon the most roseate of romances between a couple, which, after being crowned with marriage felicity, abdicates and they are parted.

"To Be or Not to Be"

"President De Valera Puts the Question to the Irish People"

President De Valera has issued to the Dail Eireann a greeting on the "second anniversary of the formal confirmation of our nation's undying desire for ancient independence, the founding of our State on the ascertained will of the people and the giving of practical effect in our own regard to those rational principles universally accepted during the war as the only basis for a lasting peace between the nations."

It is a dignified and appealing exhortation to stand firm for independence. The Irish people apparently are confronted this day with the same problem which our forefathers confronted at the beginning of the American Revolution when the first blood was shed. During the early discussion of grievances no American of reputation thought of independence from the British Empire. Even after the first blood had been shed most of the American leaders would have been content with home rule. But the British government, then, as now, in the control of the Tory party, so acted that the self-respecting Americans determined that nothing else was possible except absolute independence. When, however, the British government realized the size of its task of subjugating America and found itself facing disapproval of its conduct at home among the workmen and the Liberals of the Whig party, it sent out feelers to our American leaders suggesting compromises which practically promised a redress of all grievances that had led to the crisis.

But we no longer had any confidence in the British government or in their promises. The die had been cast, the Rubicon has been crossed and we did not know how to retreat. Like the drummer boy at Marengo we had never learned that tune. None of our leaders or our farmers had "ever sounded on a trumpet that had ever called retreat."

So we went on with the war, suffering the burning of our villages and the massacre of our women and children in the outlying settlements by savage Indians and still more savage white loyalists, whom the British sent down from Canada, some of them the ancestors of the contributors to the "Loyal Coalition," now doing so much expensive advertising in our midst; we suffered the depredation of the mercenary Hessians, whom England hired to fight us. We marched with bloody feet over the crust of the snows at Valley Forge, making the fields look like a battle from the wounds which the cold and the ice made in our shoeless feet. We went through some of the Winters so hungry that officers up to the rank of colonel had nothing to eat but peanuts and potatoes without salt or butter.

We suffered for seven long years, and then we won our independence, and we not only won our liberty but we won the liberty which Canada, Australia, New Zealand and every other remote white colony in the British Empire now possess. We fought for every white man's liberty in the British Empire, except Ireland's, and the lesson that England learned from her tyrannical conduct towards us gave Canada and Australia and New Zealand and South Africa their liberty without striking a blow, because Englishmen felt that the lesson applied in their cases, but did not think the lesson applied in the case of Ireland, because Ireland was nearer, and she could deal with Ireland more easily.

Yet Irish contributed more to the winning of our liberty than any other blood except the dominant Puritan strain in New England. It is a matter of public record that the military leaders of our revolution considered that the best regiments of the "Continental Line," Washington's only dependable fighting force, were Irish regiments. The report of the English military investigators to the British government during the revolution alleged that it was the Irish who were fighting like fiends for the American independence. Indeed one officer reported that they were doing most of the fighting. Allowing for the exaggeration of this report we can see how much we owe to the Irish blood that was shed in our revolution.

President De Valera appeals to his people to stand firm until the price of tyranny becomes so great that the Englishmen will balk at paying it any longer. He knows that Englishmen are divided into two classes—there is the conscientious, liberty-loving, live and let live element, and there is that combination of Tories and slums which has made the English name anathema throughout the liberal world. Just at the moment some liberal leaders whose love of power overreached their conscience have combined with the Tory minority and by an unscrupulous use of war psychology and war propaganda have stolen into power and remain there just as President Wilson, repudiated as he has been, still remains in power until his term expires.

But President De Valera knows that in every election to a vacancy in the House of Commons the government candidate goes to slaughter. He knows thus that public opinion in England is changing toward the government and he appeals to Irishmen all over the world, saying to them in effect:

> "If you can make your brain and heart and sinew
> Serve your turn long after they are gone
> And there is nothing left in you
> Except the will which says to you—hold on"

It is, of course, for the people of Ireland to decide their course. Great Britain offers them home rule as she has offered it to them many times before, and when their eager hand was extended to seize it and their body thrown out of balance leaning towards it, she has yanked it back and laughed in their faces. If Irishmen want to accept the kind of home rule which England offers it is for the friends of Ireland everywhere to accept their decision. What we as friends want for Ireland is what a majority of Irishmen want. If they want peace without liberty, it is not for us to complain. We have to pay a high price both to obtain liberty and to maintain it, and we understand that the number is legion among frail humanity who do not care to pay that price.

How many of these weak characters there are in Ireland, we do not know, but the fate of nations has been unhappily decided by such as these.

Utilities Board Ought to Have Power to Summons

The Department of Public Utilities which now unites in its jurisdiction the jurisdiction of the old Public Utilities Commission and the Gas and Electric Light Commission has filed a bill giving it authority to summon witnesses and administer oaths and to take testimony in all proceedings properly before it.

There can be no doubt in the world that the commission ought to have this power. Indeed we are surprised that it was not given it, the bill which created it. Anybody who sincerely believes in regulation of our public utilities ought to want the regulating body to have all the powers it is possible to give them within their scope of action.

More Truth Than Poetry

Home Comforts

By S. E. KISER

SINCE they have raised the Pullman fare
And gyp us for the common car
I find that I have ceased to care
To travel frequently or far.
I used to have a wanderlust,
I gadded oft from town to town,
But I've quit breathing cinder dust,
And am inclined to settle down.

I FIND that home's a pleasant place;
I have no longing nowadays
To look a porter in the face,
Or, for a quarter, win his praise.
My bag is on a closet shelf,
And when I've put my trousers on
I'm not compelled to shave myself
Where others jab me pro and con.

AT eating-time I do not wait
While others get their ham and eggs;
No chunks of coal bestrew my plate,
No stranger kicks me on the legs.
I waste no time in smoking cars
Where fat men study railroad guides,
Or talk, while puffing strong cigars,
About the price of skirts and hides.

I AM not one of those who roar
Because the car is cold or hot;
I do not travel any more,
Mine is, indeed, a happy lot!
Home seems a better place, somehow,
Since they have given fares a boost;
I never need a ladder now
When I'm inclined to go to roost.

Letters to the Editor

A Building Worker's Side

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir—In looking through your paper of Saturday, January 8, my attention was drawn to a picture of the collapse of a building under construction in Brooklyn, New York; below was a paragraph, insinuating that the cause was unskilled workmen in the building trades. It also stated, they are now crying for an increase in wages.

Now, being a member of a building trades union, I have been moved to protest that such unfair means should be used to prejudice the minds of the public against us.

There are very few of the public, including the most learned men, who would not place the blame on the working man after reading that paragraph. Not because they are unfair, but because they do not know the real reason, which is known only to those associated with building construction.

I, personally, have worked on buildings where the contractors demanded quantity, not quality, and the working men were forced to do work which was unsatisfactory to themselves or lose their jobs. All the contractors wanted was to finish the job at the smallest possible labor cost.

The result is, an inferior building, which, if it does not come to the disastrous end of the one in Brooklyn, will be a source of continual expense to the owners.

As to wages, there are very few people who realize the building tradesman makes less than 75 per cent of his hourly wage scale, due mostly to weather conditions.

If the working men were at fault, I would surely keep quiet, but as such criticism is undeserved, I appeal to you, as a fair newspaper, and a friend of organized labor, to print this letter, so that the people can see the reason, as given by a working man who knows.

A Ballade of the Unborn Dead

An Answer to Advocates of Birth Control

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

THEY walked the valley of the dead
Lit by a weird half light;
No sound they made, no word they said,
And they were pale with fright.
Then suddenly from unseen places came
Loud laughter that was like a whip of flame.

A land where wronged souls wait
(Those spirits called to earth by love
And driven back by hate);
And she beheld the phantom of her child.

Yea, saw the soul her wish had hurled
Out into the night and death
Before it reached the Mother world,
Or drew its natal breath,
And terrified, each hid her face and fled
Beyond the presence of her unborn dead.

And God's Great Angel who provides
Souls for our mortal land,
Laughed with the laughter that derides
At that fast fleeting band
Of self-made barren women of the earth
(Hell has no curse that withers like such mirth.)

"Oh, Angel, tell us who were they
That down below us fared;
Those shapes with faces strained and gray,
And eyes that stared and stared.
Something there was about them gave us fear;
Yet are we lonely, now they are not here."

Thus spake the spectral children; thus
The Angel made reply:
"They have no part or share with us,
They were but passers-by."
"But may we pray for them?" the phantoms plead.
"Yea, for they need your prayers," the Angel said.

(Far, far from Paradise);
Their path was lit with one wan ray
From ghostly children's eyes—
The little children who were never born.
And as they passed the Angel laughed in scorn.

GARRETT P. SERVISS' ARTICLE

Some of Nature's Apparent Magic—How Salt Freezes Water and Melts Ice at Same Time by Virtue of Same Property

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Popular Scientific Interest.

"Does salt melt and freeze ice at the same time? If it freezes ice how does it happen that a liquid of brine accumulates at the bottom of the tank? Is brine as cold as ice? —J. J. C., Jr., Chicago."

SALT does serve both to melt ice and to freeze water, and it accomplishes these apparently contradictory results by virtue of the same property. To undertake an exact scientific explanation would lead too deep into technicalities that can only be expressed mathematically. But a satisfactory account can be given without going into such details. It must be remembered, however, that in all these things there is always a depth beyond which science has not penetrated. No matter how far we may go, we always find that there is something below, or behind, which rests only on experience.

So, no matter how far back we begin with an explanation, we always have to start with some basic fact which we take as axiomatic because our senses show us that it is so, but the final fundamental cause of its being so we do not know.

Thus, in the case of salt and water, we find that there is an action taking place between the molecules of salt and those of water which causes a certain quantity of salt to dissolve in a certain quantity of water and to form a liquid mixture with the water. We may seek an explanation for this in the doctrine of molecular energy, but that only carries us a step backward and does not give even the mathematical physicist a real comprehension of the final cause.

What the Freezing Point Is

In like manner we find that when salt is dissolved in water the freezing point of the solution is lowered below the freezing point of pure water. The freezing point of any substance is the temperature at which that substance passes from the liquid to the solid state, and this act of solidification depends upon the degree of activity of the molecules, which in turn depends upon the amount of heat present.

The freezing point of iron is about 2,740 degrees Fahrenheit; the freezing point of water is 32 degrees Fahrenheit. The temperature of 32 degrees below the freezing point of water is called zero on the Fahrenheit thermometer because the inventor of that particular instrument found that by mixing salt with water he could cause the solution to remain unfrozen until the temperature had sunk 32 degrees below the point where pure water froze. He thereby imposed on the world a very inconvenient heat measure in the form of his thermometer, which we, with the stupidity characteristic of English-speaking people in matters of this kind, cling to as if it were a sure amulet. And Fahrenheit was not even an Englishman. However, he lived most of the time in England.

But, to return to the salt and water. If salt is dissolved in water the freezing point is lowered until the mixture attains the state of saturation; i. e., until no more salt can be dissolved in the given quantity of water. This state is reached when the proportions by weight of the salt and the water are respectively 23.8 and 76.2.

Another Aspect

All the time the freezing point of the solution becomes lower as the quantity of salt dissolved increases, and it is customary to represent the progressive relations of the freezing point to the degree of solution attained by two curves, which are based on the temperature and the amount of salt dissolved at successive moments of time. Where the two curves meet is the saturation point, and here it is found that the temperature marks 22 degrees below zero Centigrade, or about 7 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, while the quantity of dissolved salt bears to the quantity of water the proportion, as said above, of 23.8 to 76.2.

At this point both the water and the salt solidify, or crystallize out of the solution, and the temperature can be driven no lower. Above this point, i. e., as long as the water is not fully saturated, the water freezes, but the salt does not crystalize. Thus we see that some ice may be colder than other ice. It may be under-cooled, as steam may be super-heated.

Now, for the other aspect of the subject. If salt is thrown on snow or ice the snow or ice may be caused to melt. The reason is the same as that invoked before, viz., the action, or affinity between the water and salt molecules, for because of this the water molecules are detached from their rigid union in the ice; in other words, the ice is melted, and a solution is immediately formed with the salt, whose freezing point is lower than the freezing point of pure water. This salty water may then remain as a cold brine in the presence of ice that was frozen at a higher temperature.
